

Politics involved in GC annexations?

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Why do Granite City officials appear to be rushing to annex four parcels of property to the city without having the total package reviewed by the city's Plan Commission? Why the rush?

These are questions several Plan Commission members and at least one city official were asking this week. Speculation on potential answers to that question varied, but several suspect the answer is more involved with "whose" homes are being annexed than with "which" homes.

Some political observers believe the city administration is attempting to "lend a hand" to Dewey Melton, 2509 Westmoreland Drive, a defeated member of the Granite City Board of Education who is believed to be attempting to secure appointment to a vacant seat on the school board.

Melton has appeared at the last two city council meetings and the last school board meeting, adding to the speculation that the annexation and appointment may be linked.

Stephen Saltich resigned from the school board last week because he was elected a Sixth Ward alderman. School district rules require that since Saltich was an urban member of the board, as opposed to a rural member, his seat must be filled by a city resident.

Melton meets all of the qualifications for the school board seat, except one. His home is on the wrong side of Westmoreland Drive to be contiguous to the city boundary along the north side of Worthen Park. If he is to be appointed to the school board by the June 9 deadline, his home must be made contiguous and annexed before that date, records indicate.

Perhaps that is the reason the Granite City Council Tuesday night voted in favor of annexing three parcels of property on the north side of Westmoreland Drive, including Melton's, and one vacant lot on the south side, which will serve as a "link" to make the north side homes contiguous to the city boundary.

The city's action Tuesday night is not official, but instructs the city attorney to prepare annexation ordinances for the council to pass June 2.

Annexation petitions from Randall and Alice Sigite for the vacant south side property, needed for the link to the north side of the street, were obtained last Friday and were never submitted to the city's planning and zoning department and were never scheduled for consideration by the Plan Commission, William "Bill" Dallas Jr., secretary for the zoning department, concluded after a review of his documents Wednesday.

"This has been done before," according to Dave Morgan, chairman of the Plan Commission. "Sometimes they take them (annexations) straight

Call hearing on 'Occupancy' bill

A tentative proposal to require occupancy permits before new occupants are allowed to move into dwellings in Granite City is becoming "a hot issue," the city council decided Tuesday night, and the aldermen decided to hold a public hearing on that subject Tuesday, June 9, at 7 p.m. in the township hall, 2580 Delmar Ave.

Mayor Paul Schuler noticed several realtors and homeowners who are opposed to the proposed ordinance in the audience at Tuesday night's council meeting and noted he has received several telephone calls on the matter. He said the issue of the occupancy permits is "such an important issue" that it deserves a public hearing. "You can voice your opinions, desires or whatever," the mayor said.

"No action on the ordinance is contemplated tonight," he told those present.

Organized opposition to the proposed occupancy permit ordinance is growing, persons contacting the Press-Record have said.

The president of the Granite City Board of Realtors, Ray Kegel, has made a public statement, saying all of the members of that board oppose the idea of imposing occupancy permits in Granite City, similar to the permits required in Madison, Venice and Alton. Some members of the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society have indicated opposition to the proposed ordinance, but say they are acting as individuals only, since DNRS is not a political group and does not wish to take a stand.

One member of that group said that under the proposed ordinance, the majority of the older homes in the restoration society area could not be resold without major structural modifications.

Many were built before inside plumbing and have added inside bathrooms on the first floor only, the DNRS member said. The proposed ordinance would require a toilet on any floor having two or more bedrooms.

Some of the bathrooms, although beautifully decorated, do not have a window or ventilation, which would be required by the occupancy permit ordinance before the houses could be sold or rented.

The proposed ordinance also sets minimum sizes for rooms, minimum window areas, minimum numbers of electrical outlets in each room and other specifications which many older homes could not meet without major modifications, the member contended.

He also questioned who would be appointed as the building commissioner to enforce the ordinance, if it is approved. "Would this be a qualified inspector or just another political appointment?" he asked.

Banking and other bills affect area

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Among the local news reports each year is what happens at Springfield; laws passed by the legislature and signed by the governor have a big impact on life in the Quad Cities and other Illinois communities.

Area residents will be keeping a watchful eye this month and next month on the General Assembly, whose 1981 session is nearing a conclusion. Proposals on banking and several other topics are receiving much attention.

Bank structure revision was voted 34-20 by the Senate in late May. The amended bill matches the provisions of legislation approved a short time earlier in a 95-58 House vote.

Bankers in this region and across the state are divided over the issue of whether there should be multi-bank holding companies. The proposal was backed by the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois and opposed by the Independent Community Banks of Illinois and some members of the Illinois Bankers Association. If the legislation is signed:

- Banks would be allowed to affiliate under common ownership through a multi-bank company. Illinois presently allows one-bank holding companies.
- Five regions would be established. A multi-bank holding company could acquire banks within its home region and one contiguous region.
- After the date of enactment, newly chartered banks could not be acquired until they have existed for at least ten years.
- There could be one additional limited-service facility for a total of three. Banks are now allowed two such facilities, one within 1,500 feet and another within 3,500 yards of the bank.
- The additional facility could be within the home office county or, if outside of the county, no farther than 10 miles from the bank. It could not be closer than one mile to the home office of another bank.

The legislature continued to be the scene of bustling activity this week. Deliberations began at noon Tuesday and continued into the evening. On Wednesday, citizens rallied on the Capitol steps, protesting the governor's proposed Medicaid budget cuts as harmful to poor people across the state.

The House was debating 72 amendments to restore certain programs and funds to the budgets of several agencies, including the Department of Public Aid. Most of the amendments were defeated as legislators continued to emphasize cost-cutting.

Among the proposals rejected was a five percent cost-of-living increase for public assistance recipients.

The Illinois Senate yesterday voted to limit most hospital stays to 15 days for public aid recipients, as an alternative to Governor James R. Thompson's

Madison desegregation hearings set June 2-3

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The Madison School District 12 Board of Education has published in today's Press-Record the desegregation plan submitted by the voluntary advisory committee that has been meeting regularly for several months.

The purpose of the committee is to make recommendations to the Madison Board of Education as to how the desegregation of Blair and Harris elementary schools might best be accomplished.

The two schools serve students from kindergarten through third grades.

A board spokesman said that the board wanted the public to know that it has not endorsed any plan and is wanting the people affected to also have input in helping the board decide on a desegregation plan.

On Tuesday, June 2, at Blair School and on Wednesday, June 3, at Harris School the board will hold public hearings beginning at 7 p.m. each night.

The purpose of these meetings is to allow for public comments and input into a desegregation plan.

The board spokesman called particular attention to the fact that only constituents of the Madison school district will be allowed to comment.

It was also noted that people wishing to make comments will have to register at the meeting with the board secretary between 6:45 p.m. and 7 p.m. the night of the meeting.

In formulating the desegregation plan the committee studied the physical facilities of the schools, staff, present enrollment, projected future enrollment, racial composition of the student bodies and staffs, community attitudes, board attitudes, projected transitional costs, projected transportation costs, projected inservice

Aldermen urged to give 'thought' to new budget

It's budget time for Granite City and all indications are that it is going to be "belt-tightening" time.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the city council Tuesday night, "You better give some very serious thought to the budget. There are going to be some very drastic measures suggested by this chair at budget time."

Schuler's comments were reminiscent of his statements before the city council approved a $14,359,216 budget in July, 1980. "For what it's worth, we have the same thing every year—disagreements over the budget which are becoming increasingly heated year by year, but I think it is good. It shows that the aldermen are studying the figures and making themselves aware of the problems," he said nearly a year ago.

The warning of "drastic measures suggested by this chair" issued by Schuler Tuesday night may mean a repeat of the budget debates last year.

Two of the three members of the finance committee at that time suggested that the city's air pollution control department be scrapped as being one of many cost-cutting measures.

Bond agreement at Madison to fund new store building

By LISA LUTZ
of the Press-Record

A memorandum agreement for the issuance of $425,000 in industrial revenue bonds was authorized by the Madison City Council at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

The council's action on the agreement, which is between the city, Reese's Drug Store, and Chester Dairy Company, is one of the first major steps toward finalizing the three-year shopping center development proposal in Madison.

The city will construct a new building on the northeast corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue that will house the proposed new store.

The agreement stipulates that the bonds will not constitute a city indebtedness. The bonds are to be retired by the building tenants through building revenues.

The next step toward completion of the project calls for architectural and specification agreements to be secured, according to city comptroller Al Hudzik.

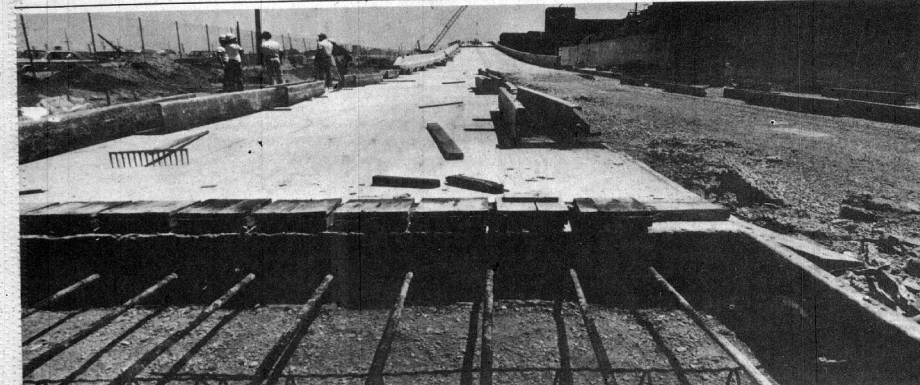

The new stores are projected to provide 15 new jobs in the city. "We are very optimistic about this," Sasyk added.

City officials are hopeful that the project will increase economic activity in the city as well as provide more employment opportunities.

Actual construction could begin in three or four months, according to Hudzik, and plans are expected to be negotiated without major conflicts.

The council also agreed to hire an attorney to assist Casper Nighossian, the council's attorney, in condemnation suits for the city. "We have been saddling Casper with a lot of work," Mayor Mike Sasyk told the aldermen. Council members authorized the finance committee, Sasyk, and city

Illinois construction outlook now brighter

The Illinois construction picture is showing a substantial revival, according to the May economic data sheets released by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA). The state's unemployment rate also dropped one-half percent in April, it was noted.

March construction data, the latest available, showed Illinois contracts for future construction were up 65 percent over a year ago, while contracts nationwide increased by only 27 percent during the same period.

March contracts for future residential construction totaled $126 million; non-residential contracts, $251 million; and non-building contracts — bridges, roads, etc. — $482 million.

These dollar figures represent increases over March 1980 of 16 percent and 55 percent, and a decrease of three percent, respectively.

For the first three months of 1981, total construction in Illinois was two percent ahead of 1980 activity.

Construction industry analysts and DCCA spokesmen predicted substantial increases in Illinois construction activity several months ago, and noted that such increases would bode well for the state's economy.

"Construction activity is among the most important economic indicators," Wally Biernann, chief of DCCA research, said, "and recent data suggest that the state's building industries are coming to life."

The Jan. 22 issue of the magazine Engineering Record ranked Illinois fourth among the states in future office construction; ninth in manufacturing facilities construction; and fifth in total planned construction.

"New construction activity, itself, means thousands of new jobs immediately," Biernann said, "and construction of office and manufacturing facilities obviously means new service and industrial jobs in the future."

Construction industry leaders expect substantial construction activity to be apparent in Illinois and nationwide by late 1981 and to continue well into 1982.

Even though the Illinois unemployment rate dropped one-half of one percent in April to 8.5 percent, the U.S. rate remained unchanged at the 7.3 percent March figure. Three Illinois urban areas — Bloomington, Champaign and Springfield — had March unemployment rates below the national rate, and 14 counties were at or below the U.S. March rate.

"It is Illinois' status as an industrial giant that is contributing to the state's unemployment rate," Biernann said.

"The current state of the economy nationwide has significantly inhibited industrial production and there have been heavy layoffs."

"As the economy improves, we expect the unemployment situation in Illinois to improve also. Illinois is among the most prosperous states when the national economy is in good shape, and is among the hardest hit states when the economy is troubled."

Biernann pointed to new U.S. Department of Commerce data that ranked Illinois sixth among the states in per capita personal income, and suggested such positive economic factors are necessarily balanced by higher unemployment under certain national economic conditions.

"For example," Biernann said, "a less industrialized state may have lower unemployment, but it may also have a lower per capita personal income, lower wages, an educational system inferior to ours, and a less developed overall economy."

Jobless rates for the state's major urban areas for March were as follows: Bloomington 7.1 percent, Champaign 6.5, Chicago 8.7, Moline area 8.7, Decatur 11.9, Peoria 10.8, Rockford 11.3, Springfield 7.2 and Madison-St. Clair counties, 11.6.

Drive behind his home last week. Mehelic said the work was done to maintain the proper drainage, although there was no danger of the street flooding. In the process of cleaning and pumping the ditch, the crews removed standing from an alfalfa field Mehelic owns. (Press-Record Photo)

Drain Mehelic's alfalfa field

Frank Mehelic, highway commissioner of Nameoki Township, said last week that he was only draining and cleaning the culvert along Lake Drive next to an alfalfa field he owns when a Press-Record photographer spotted him and a township highway department crew last week.

Mehelic said that in the process of draining the culvert just south of Route 162, behind his home, water from his alfalfa field was drained, but said his crew did that throughout areas of the township which were flooded by the May 17 rainstorm.

"We've been all over. I took care of everybody else first. I'm a taxpayer too. We pumped by Lane and over this week," Mehelic said Thursday, adding, "I've got one more to do on Lake Drive between Route 162 and railroad tracks."

He said when he drained his field, it was after others. "We drained the field of everybody complained about," he said, contending that field was on the west side of Lake Drive, south of Route 162. "The east side portion is draining out too, now, and that is my property, as a taxpayer and a formal complainant, I'm complaining too to drain the water off," he told the Press-Record.

Asked if the drainage of the fields came within the limits of his job, which allows him to do drainage only to protect township roads, Mehelic said, "We eliminated the water across the roadway by putting in culverts last year. We did that last spring in a drainage project approved last year by the town board to do that for about $1,100 or $1,200." He said Lake Drive has not been covered with water since the culverts were installed. However, he added, "You have to keep the water in its natural flow. If people block it, it is not going to flow, so we went along the right-of-way and dug out the ditch. We cleaned the ditch out to keep the water flowing. He said he and his crew spent two half-days pumping water adjacent to his field on both sides of the roadway and cleaning the ditch.

Lutheran High School registering students

Tuition for the new school year will be $925 for children from association member churches. For non-association members, the fee is $1,450. There is a discount for the second child from a family and there also is a $50 registration and book rental fee and a $15 student activity fee.

Tuition fees may be paid in full immediately, in ten installments on a monthly basis, quarterly, or by the semester.

A full range of subjects are available to students, including English, religion, German, math, history, fine arts, business, science, physical education and driver's education. Extracurricular activities include band, choir, drama, student government, the school paper, yearbook, cheerleading and sports.

The sports program consists of baseball, soccer and basketball for boys, and volleyball, softball and basketball for girls. MELHS competes as a member of the Illini Gateway Conference with five other schools.

Applications for the 1981-82 school year are available through the high school by request. Interested parents an contact the school by calling 656-0043 in the morning, or by visiting the school at 1001 Center Grove Road, Edwardsville.

South High awards band honors Scholarships available for Teenage Institute

By VALERIE EVENED
of the Press-Record

Musical ability and leadership qualities displayed by youthful musicians were recognized this week with the presentation of annual awards to members of the Granite City High School South Band.

Announcement of the award winners was made by Joseph Owens, South High Band director, who also paid tribute to graduating senior band members.

Receiving the 1980-81 John Philip Sousa Award were Loretta Rutledge and Carla Ryterski.

The award is bestowed annually upon students who are sensitive, exceptional musicians and also show outstanding leadership qualities, Owens said.

Miss Rutledge has participated in the South High School Band for four years. Performing on the oboe, she has been section leader for three years and also served as captain of the Flag Squad and president of the Band Letterman's Club.

She has taken part in the Illinois High School Association's Solo and Ensemble contest and has held first chair in the All-City Band Festival.

Miss Ryterski also has participated in band for four years, performing on the bassoon, flute and French horn, and was involved in competition in the IHSA contest.

She has served as secretary of the Band Letterman's Club and also as librarian. She held first chair in her division in the All-City Band Festival.

Mary Metcalf was the recipient of the Special Band Award presented to a student or students who display a high degree of musical ability and outstanding contributions to the band.

She is historian of the Band Letterman's Club and has held first chair in the mallet percussion section and performed in the All-City Band Festival.

Receiving the Drum Major Award were Jeff Kuhn and Deborah Kacera, who were cited for outstanding service during the marching season and for assisting the band director at pep rallies and in parades.

The ITI brings together Illinois teenagers and professional resources to share information and examine feelings about alcohol and drug misuse and related life problems. The goals of the program are to provide a learning experience regarding alcohol and drug abuse for 250 high school students and to encourage the participants to serve as resources in their home communities.

The institute is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Persons attending must have passing grades and be willing to serve as community resources in the area of substance abuse.

Grants for heating bills

Individuals may still apply for LIEAP grants to help pay winter heating bills according to Wayne Curtis of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (CCA), the state's lead LIEAP agency.

"Even though the heating months have come to an end," Curtis said, "individuals may still make application for a grant. The fact that a family may be current with its heating bill will have no effect on grant eligibility if the family meets standard LIEAP qualifications."

"We are still strongly encouraging everyone who thinks his or her household may be eligible for assistance to make application," Curtis said, "particularly senior citizens and other individuals on fixed incomes who may have heating bills remaining from the winter."

Curtis said most counties in the state still have LIEAP funds available and urged all individuals who think they may qualify for assistance to make application.

LIEAP grants may range from $60 to $430 depending on income, location and type of heating fuel used. Both home-owners and renters may apply for grants.

LIEAP applications must be made in person at local administering agencies. For more information, individuals may call, toll-free, 800-252-8943.

Politics involved to the city council and the council passes them. Sometimes, they prefer the Plan Commission. If the council has the final say-so, I guess they can do it," Morgan said.

Asked if he believed the annexation of one vacant lot on the south side of the street to make the three north side lots and homes contiguous was legal, Morgan said he is not an attorney, but has discovered during his term on the Plan Commission that "contiguous is ambiguous."

He said in past annexations, legal opinions have been sought. "Some say contiguous means adjacent or near to," he contended, adding, "I guess they can do it."

Previously, the Plan Commission had acted on annexing one of the properties, 2501 Westmoreland, the home of Richard Chosich. The city council approved that annexation, but then discovered it was not contiguous to the city limits.

May 14, the Plan Commission was asked to give its recommendations on the annexations of the properties of Melton at 2509 Westmoreland and Robert Hildebrand, 2525 Westmoreland, and tabled action on those until City Engineer Monroe Brewer could advise whether the properties were contiguous. The Plan Commission asked Brewer to report back at the next meeting, which is to be scheduled next month.

Instead, city officials "took the ball" and added an annexation petition from the vacant Sigtie property at 2530 Westmoreland, and brought the recommendation directly to the city council. Mrs. Sigtie verified yesterday that only the vacant lot next to their home is involved and not their home at 2532 Westmoreland.

In a letter to the council, Brewer said that three of the annexations were previously studied by the Plan Commission, but added, "It is my understanding that it (Plan Commission approval) is not required."

The council then voted unanimously to approve the four annexations. However, Mayor Paul Schuler said after the vote that City Attorney John Paga would have to bring the annexations back to the council in ordinance form. Aldermen absent from the meeting were Paul Ray Bowler and Fred "Pat" Schuman.

Alderman Sharon Perjak, chairman of the city's planning and zoning committee, who read Brewer's letter to the council, said after the meeting that she was unaware that annexation of the Sigtie property had never been submitted to the Plan Commission.

Bowler, former chairman of the planning and zoning committee, reviewed the issue Wednesday and commented, "Maybe it's why I was not reappointed chairman of planning and zoning."

"All annexations requested are to be referred to the Plan Commission. That's the proper channel. Probably, quite a few have been run through without the Plan Commission, but if you are talking about procedure, the procedure is to take them through the Plan Commission for a recommendation."

"It seems nothing but political. Does it seem a little odd? I think it does," Bowler concluded.

Desegregation

programing, anticipated community workshops, curriculum, student activities and special education features. As a result of a tour of the facilities, the group recommended that both buildings, if properly maintained, would provide essentially the same quality of educational services to primary students.

It was recommended that the Blair building should not be closed as part of any desegregation plan recommended by the committee.

It was the consensus of the committee that the district and the community had integrated grades four through 12 with "relative ease."

Up to this time integration meant the busing of black children to schools that were located in the predominantly white area.

Now the committee feels that to have a successful integration of students at the primary level (K-3) there must be busing predominantly by the white community.

Discussion by the committee also had to do with pupil reassignment and transferring to meet legal requirements; open enrollment, magnet problems, school closing, probable future racial composition of the school and the district; racial identity of the residents in the attendance area of each school, the effect on racial composition of the schools various plans.

In summary the committee cautioned the board and the community that effective integrating of the two primary facilities requires much more comprehensive planning and the committee stands ready to assist.

prohibit Illinois Power and Illinois-American Water Co. from turning on the utilities for new occupants of any house or apartment until they show either a temporary or a permanent occupancy permit. The temporary permit would have an expiration date, determined by the building commissioner.

Kaegel said he feels the ordinance goes beyond the scope of government's authority, which is only to protect the health and safety of the residents, not to determine the size of their rooms, closets and windows and the distances between bedrooms and bathrooms. "It is not government's function," he said.

Kaegel said the realtors also are concerned about how the new building commissioner would enforce the ordinance. "We have found (in other cities) it is a matter of personal prejudice by the building inspector. If he doesn't like a particular real estate broker or buyer, or they are not in the favor of the administration in power, the building inspector will give them (the realtor and buyers) a hard time," Kaegel contended.

Some owners of older homes in the city told the Press-Record that they have been unable to obtain a copy of the proposed $400 per day ceiling on allowable hospital charges.

A deadlock is continuing on how the state should help the Regional Transportation Authority continue mass transit service in the Chicago area. The RTA "ran out of money" Wednesday and has shut down some bus lines.

The Senate gave unanimous approval Tuesday to an attempt to equalize farm land tax assessments. The bill would base the value of harvested crop land on an index of soil productivity, not income, production costs and net return.

Such land currently is assessed by a formula based on gross productivity and the land's market price.

Senators failed by one vote Tuesday to keep utility advertising costs from being reflected in consumers' bills, but they passed a bill requiring school boards to develop standards for competency testing.

The Senate authorized optometrists to use certain diagnostic drugs and to make referrals to physicians, and comptroller Al Hudzik to hire another attorney.

The council also was informed of Waggoner Equipment Rental and Excavating Company's intentions to purchase the property which they now rent in the Stephen Maeras Industrial Park, which is owned by the city.

Permission for the industrial committee to negotiate a purchasing agreement with that company was granted by the council.

It also was noted that the spotlight at the corner of Bissel and Highway 3 will be discontinued, as traffic does not warrant the use of the light. Council defeated a voluntary $1 checkoff from state income taxes to finance campaigns for governor and lieutenant governor.

Democrats defeated several efforts to have the full Senate consider legislation changing the worker compensation and unemployment programs.

And the Senate turned down proposed changes in the Open Meetings Act, but approved Senator Sam Valabene's bill to increase grants to libraries in Illinois.

members agreed to replace the light with a stop sign.

St. Mary's Church has asked the aldermen for permission to hold their 51st annual picnic on June 18, 19, and 20. Permission was granted, and city streets will be needed for the picnic.

TRESPASS ALLEGED

Anton J. "Tony" Walsh, 17, of 1726 Cleveland Blvd., and Calvin Dale Walker, 17, of 1739 Delmar Ave., were charged with criminal trespass to property after they were allegedly seen entering a basement at an apartment building at 1807 Edison Ave. at noon Wednesday. The owner of the building alleged the two did not have permission to be in the basement, from which entry to an apartment could have been gained. Walsh and Walker pleaded guilty before Associate Judge Clayton Williams at 3:25 p.m. Wednesday and were fined $75. They were given 30 days to pay the fines and were released.

RABIES CLINIC IS PLANNED MAY 30

A rabies clinic will be held at the Granite City animal shelter on May 30 from 1 to 3 p.m. The mandatory shots will be available for a fee of $6. Distemper shots also will be available for an $8 fee. State and city statutes require the rabies shots. Failure to comply with these laws can result in imprisonment fees.

THREE APPREHENDED

Three boys in their mid-teens were apprehended by police for trespassing at a Norfolk & Western Railway Co. building near the 25th Street railroad crossing at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday. Boards had been removed from a window.

Nameoki forced to pay salt bill

Township boards of trustees have no authority to refuse to pay highway department bills they feel may be improper to too high, as long as the highway commissioner certifies that the bills are true and correct, the Nameoki Town Board was told in a letter from the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs.

As the result of that opinion, the town board voted Tuesday night to pay a controversial bill from Highway Commissioner Frank Melchic for $699 as the unpaid portion of a bill from Universal Research Corp. for calcium chloride ice-melting pellets purchased last year.

In January, the outgoing town board decided that the bill was approximately double the current market value for the pellets and agreed to pay only $700 of the $1,399.50 bill from Universal Laboratories or Universal Research (which have merged, according to documents).

Trustee W. Lee Adams said at that time that he felt $700 was a fair price for the two tons of calcium chloride pellets and said that if Melchic wanted to force the town board to pay the remainder of the bill, he would have to take the board to court.

The new town board, which was seated earlier this month, was presented the remaining bill at its first two meetings. On May 11, the new board separated the bill from the bill list and refused to pay it.

Trustee Mrs. Helen Hawkins asked for guidance from the Department of Local Government Affairs and received opinions which she presented to the town board Tuesday night.

She told the Press-Record she personally did not feel the bill was a just bill, but said the opinions she received indicate the town board has no authority to refuse payment of a highway department bill, as long as the highway commissioner certifies it is a just bill, which Melchic has done.

Adams again voted against paying the remainder of the bill, but was alone in his vote. The others voted to approve the bill and it will be paid, the board decided.

In other business, the board approved the 1981-82 budgets for the township.

The new budgets total $187,147 in the town fund, $85,800 for general assistance and $78,493 from revenue sharing. A public hearing preceded the passage of the budgets.

A letter was read from the Madison County Manpower office notifying the township that it will lose four employees when the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program funded by Manpower expires June 12.

The employees are primarily in the environmental pickup area and no decision has been made on whether they will be replaced.

Tom Boushader, the township's mosquito spray technician, is working and the township is being sprayed regularly. They agreed to advertise for bids for additional mosquito spray chemicals.

A letter was read from Melchic to S.M. Wilson, contractor for the new sanitary sewers through the township, notifying them that the township is not satisfied with the condition of the sewer work. Before it can receive the final payment of funds for the work, S.M. Wilson must satisfy the township and residents in a reasonable manner, it has been indicated.

An offer from Holecamp Equipment Co., St. Louis, for a used street sweeper was approved by the board. The sweeper costs $6,500, but the township will receive $500 trade-in for its old sweeper for a total of $6,000.

Virginia Biggs, a former township employee, was rehired by the new board as a secretary in the township office. They also rehired Jim Ferguson as a custodian.

The board also agreed to rent an ice machine for $125 a day, primarily for street department workers.

Melchic announced that the township is being repaired the rough Mockingbird Lane crossing north of Route 182, beginning June 1. The crossing will be closed for five to seven days during the work, he noted.

Yesterday, Schuler's administrative aide, David Nolan, said that six CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) jobs funded by Manpower will officially end, but he noted some of those people have quit recently and have not been replaced.

"I see no significant loss to the city since we put out ambulance EMTs (Emergency Medical Technicians), police dispatchers, custodians and other Manpower employees on the city payroll years ago," Nolan predicted.

Alderman

nearly $14.4 million.

The 1980-81 budget then was approved on an 8 to 5 vote.

Some disagreement and division is anticipated again this year, but may not be as heated as in past years, some observers feel.

Schuler was asked Tuesday night about the after-recent Manpower program cutbacks may have on the city and Schuler noted that those Manpower employees the city still has must be terminated by June 12 or before.

Yesterday, Schuler's administrative aide, David Nolan, said that six CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) jobs funded by Manpower will officially end, but he noted some of those people have quit recently and have not been replaced.

Plan game room on Johnson Road

Plans to establish a game center in the former Donut Shop, 1512 Johnson Road (previously H. Salt Fish 'n' Chips), next to Kentucky Fried Chicken were announced by Richard Scott Stevens during Tuesday night's meeting of the Granite City Council.

Stevens, in a letter, asked the council to grant a business license for a "family fun center" which will contain about 10 to 15 pinball and video games, tables for backgammon and chess, two foosball tables and a soft drink machine. In the future, thinking adult games could be added, the letter notes.

If a license is granted, the business could open in July; the council was told.

Permission of the council is required under an ordinance regulating such gaming centers in the city. The ordinance sets strict controls on age of the players, hours and other factors and prohibits gambling of all types. Children under the age of 18 are prohibited from playing the games in such establishments, Alderman Everett Morien recalled.

The council agreed to refer the request for a business license to the aldermen of the Fourth Ward, Warren Decatur and Sharon Perjak, for a recommendation. Mrs. Perjak told the council she already has been assured that the establishment will be well supervised. "It is not going to become just a hangout," she pledged.

Natural gas cost ruling by top court

Slightly lower natural gas cost for the Quad-City area may result from a 7-1 U.S. Supreme Court decision Tuesday.

The court declared unconstitutional a Louisiana tax on natural gas piped through that state to Illinois and other states.

W. H. Bourne, president of the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., said the ruling may allow the pipeline company to recover $6,800,000 in taxes it has paid. However, Louisiana can petition the Supreme Court for a rehearing or take other steps to delay the refund.

The tax has cost the local area transmission firm about $300,000 a month. In all, Louisiana has been collecting $250 million a year from various companies affected by the tax, which was passed on to consumers in more than 30 states.

The court said the tax, started in 1979, interferes with the Federal Energy

Cleanup program begins June 3

The Granite City Sanitation Department will hold a cleanup drive, beginning June 3. This will give homeowners an opportunity to dispose of large items that may have been neglected during the Chamber of Commerce cleanup drive last month.

The drive is tentatively scheduled to start in the 7th Ward, and cards will be placed on the front doors of those homes, informing residents of pickup dates. The sanitation department plans to start in that area and remain there until it is finished.

Trash must be containerized, and residents are being reminded that no hazardous material, such as chemicals or paint, will be removed by the sanitation department. Fallen tree limbs or other brush is to be removed by the street department.

The program is in conjunction with the mayor's student summer employment program, and this cleanup effort will utilize those employees.

Residents will be informed of pickup times two days in advance by the cards on doors. Further information may be obtained by calling 452-8220.

Paint program deadline June 12

June 12 is the deadline for the submission of applications for the Granite City paint program.

The paint program, which is in coordination with the mayor's office and the Madison County Community Development Office (MCCO), is designed to aid senior citizens and low income families who can substantiate income levels and residency requirements. The necessity of conditions will be established before painting begins.

The program is limited to cleaning, scraping and painting with white paint and is scheduled to continue for a two month period.

Senior citizens applications are available at the office of Nelson Hagnauer, 2060 Delmar Ave. Other applications may be obtained at the mayor's office.

Benefit dance for Hospice

Each year the Southern Illinois Armadillo Flats Radio Club sponsors a fund-raising event. They have selected Hospice of Madison County as the recipient to receive half the proceeds of their 1981 event.

Headlining this year's event will be Al Wilson, principal of Emerson School in Granite City and an active civic leader.

The countywide dance will be Saturday, May 30, at Highland K of C Hall (on Route 143—3 miles South of I-70). The sponsors said they are pleased to have the Joey James Orchestra furnishing music to please everyone, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Hospice of Madison County is a Granite City-based home care program serving terminally-ill cancer patients and their families in all of Madison County. The fairly new program has been accepting patients since October 1979. It has served 100 patients and their families in the Madison County area. The program provides palliative and supportive care for terminally-ill persons and their families, either directly or on a consulting basis with the patient's physician or another community agency. Originally a medieval name for a way station for pilgrims and travelers where they could be replenished, refreshed, and cared for, "hospice" is now used to designate an organized program of care for people going through life's last station. The whole family is considered the unit care.

The care extends through the mourning process. Emphasis is placed on symptom control and support, both before and after death. Full scope health services are provided by an organized interdisciplinary team, available on a 24-hour-a-day, seven days a week basis.

The not-for-profit program is funded through memberships, donations, memorials, a grant from Southern Illinois Department of Aging, and organizations such as the Armadillo Flats Hospice fund-raising events, such as this dance. The public is invited to take this opportunity to help support this much-needed community service and at the same time have a fun evening of dancing with supporters from the entire county.

Tickets are $6 per person in advance, and $7 at the door. "Free Beer," a cash bar and prizes will be provided.

For tickets or more information, Quad-Cityans may call Al Wilson at Emerson School at (618) 877-2955 or Rosemarie Lindner at Hospice of Madison County at (618) 796-3396.

Dr. Beard personnel director

Dr. Earl S. Beard, acting vice-president and provost of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been named director of Personnel Services, a new centralized office combining all personnel operations of the university.

The appointment, announced Tuesday by President Earl Lazerson, is subject to ratification by the chancellor and SIU board and will be effective July 15.

The designation is the final step in the president's administrative reorganization announced last summer.

In his new position, Dr. Beard will have responsibility for faculty personnel services, civil service personnel services, "other" personnel services, labor negotiations, personnel records management, development programs for faculty and staff, and personnel relations.

Dr. Beard has been acting vice-president and provost since Sept. 19, 1979. He has been associated with the university since 1957, when he joined the faculty as a professor of history and dean of the School of Social Sciences.

After serving five years as dean, he assisted with a variety of other administrative roles, including service as chairman of the Graduate Council and coordinator of the University Self-Study Report for the North Central Association. He also was a member of various committees of the University Senate.

Dr. Beard was named special assistant to the vice-president and provost in July 1977, and he accepted the position of assistant vice-president for academic personnel administration in September 1978.

Dr. Beard's previous administrative experience includes four years as dean of the Shelby County College in Pennsylvania and two years as director of the Kansas State University Correspondence Study Program.

Dr. Beard began his teaching career in 1953 at the University of Maryland. A native of St. Louis, he completed his master's and doctoral degrees in history at the University of Iowa after undergraduate studies at St. Louis U. and Baylor U.

He and his wife, Betty, reside in Edwardsville. Other general officers named by President Lazerson to head the principal organizational units of SIUE are: Dr. James R. Buck, director of development and public affairs; Dr. Luther Stalter, director of supporting services; Dr. Barbara J. Telers, vice-president and provost; and Dr. John R. Reiner, director of planning and resource management.

All have assumed operation of their units except Dr. Telers, who will begin her duties July 15. She presently serves as vice-chancellor for academic affairs of the University of Arkansas at Monticello.

During the next two weeks, the Illinois-American Water Co. and the Granite City Fire Department will test fire hydrants in this city.

Before the work is completed, every fire hydrant in the city of Granite City will be opened and flowed to capacity.

In this way, we are able to determine the condition and reliability of all hydrants in the city," R. L. Jackson, manager of the firm's Granite City district, said.

"The flushing of hydrants causes huge drafts of water in the water mains, and there will be some discoloration in water in the immediate area of the flushing."

"The water is safe and will return clear and normal within a few hours," he said. The flushing and testing schedule is as follows:

June 1 to 3, Downtown area, Tri-City Park area, Tri-City Park area.

June 4 to 5, Downtown area, Lincoln Park, West Granite.

June 8 to 10, West Granite, North Granite, East Granite.

June 11 to 12, Glenview, Marshall School, Community Heights, Dream Villa.

June 15 to 17, Dream Villa, Maryland Heights, Glenview.

June 18 to 19, Bellemeor, Briarcliff, Terrace, Glenview.

June 22 to 23, Wilson Park, Luaders Park.

Jackson said that the water company will continue the hydrant flushing until all hydrants in Granite City, Madison, Venice and the fire districts have been inspected. Flushing schedules will be announced as the program progresses into other areas not listed above.

FATHER AND SON. Mark Fossum takes the oath in the U.S. Army Reserve Membership Program from his father, Lt. Col. Raymond O. Fossum. Both are of Granite City. Young Fossum is a 1981 graduate of Granite City High School North and plans to train as a helicopter repair and maintenance man.

Follows father's footsteps in Army Reserve program

Mark Fossum, the son of Lieutenant Colonel Raymond O. Fossum of Granite City, is following in his father's footsteps.

He has joined the Army Reserve's Simultaneous Membership Program, which allows a high school senior to join the Army Reserve, undertake basic training during the summer following his or her senior year, complete ROTC training during his or her first two years of college, and serve during the final two years of college as an Army Reserve officer.

The total value of the pay received under the program is over $13,100. After graduating, Mark will have the option of either serving as an Army Reserve officer or applying for active duty status.

Mark is a 1981 graduate of Granite City North High School. He will train as a helicopter maintenance repairer. He will attend Washington State University.

Mark was signed up by Sergeant First Class Ken Whitsell, who works out of the Army Reserve Center Recruiting Station at 4350 South Kingshighway in St. Louis.

Lieutenant Colonel Fossum is a 1960 graduate of Washington State University and an Army aviator who served on three tours of duty in Vietnam. He is currently the commanding officer of the Field Service Activity of the Troop Support and Aviation Materiel Readiness Command (TSARCOM) in St. Louis.

He and his wife, Marcia, live in Granite City. Lt. Col. Fossum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Banke, 30-year residents of Bremerton, Wash.

Scouts cycle to area camp

Boy Scout Troop 7, of St. Joseph's Church, cycled to the Granite City Army Installation for a weekend of camping and practice for the Spring Camporee this summer.

They practiced tracking night hikes each evening at the camp. Soccer games were played and Joey Kumsierczak introduced "Tippy the Turtle," the scout mascot.

Parents were invited to join the group for a family fun day, on Saturday of the weekend camp. Teams of scouts played wiffle ball and soccer against the teams of parents.

The parents were given the opportunity to sample their son's cooking ability, as the scouts cooked dinner for them on Saturday evening.

The boys concluded the family day by performing skits around a campfire.

On Sunday, the scouts attended church at the depot's chapel and Father Victor, the troop's executive officer, conducted the mass.

Laclede Steel sees dividends restored in '82

Shareholders attending the annual meeting of Laclede Steel Co. Thursday were told that the overall operating performance is continuing to show the improvement experienced in the first quarter of the new year and that financial results for 1981, as a whole are expected to show significant improvement over 1980.

Robert S. Turner, president and chief executive officer, said, "Our orders are well ahead of last year at this time and we are now through more than half of our second quarter. We're pleased that our sales and earnings both have continued to improve compared with a year ago."

"Because of stipulations in our loan agreement, concerning earnings in 1980, we cannot pay any dividends in 1981."

"We are prohibited from paying any dividends in 1982 unless we achieve net earnings this year of at least $2,500,000. We believe we will exceed that earnings requirement and that our board will be in a position, if it is then warranted, to consider resumption of dividend payments some time next year."

Bush to give talk June 19

Vice President George Bush will be the speaker at the eighth annual membership luncheon meeting of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association on June 19 at noon at the Cervantes Convention and Exhibition Center.

Bush entered public life in 1964 after a career in Texas oil companies. Though he failed to win election to the U.S. Senate that year, he was elected to Congress in 1966 and 1968.

He was ambassador to the United Nations from 1971 to 1973, chairman of the National Republican Committee from 1973 to 1974, envoy to Peking from 1974 to 1975 and director of Central Intelligence Agency from 1976 to 1977.

In addition to heading the "crisis management team" of the Reagan administration, the vice president chairs an inter-agency task force on government regulatory reform.

Mushrooms cause botulism scare

As many as 5 million four-ounce cans of mushrooms sold since April 1 could be tainted with botulism, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is warning.

Oxford Royal Mushroom Products, Inc., of Kelton, Pa., which markets mushrooms under about 30 brand names, voluntarily recalled his mushrooms after tests by the FDA and National Food Processors Association showed traces of botulism in several cans.

Botulism is a deadly poison produced by bacteria found in improperly preserved food.

The recall affects 30 states, including Missouri and Illinois, where the mushrooms were sold at Kroger and National supermarkets.

Brand names under which the mushrooms were sold in Illinois include Food Club, GENE CRIVELLO, regional director for the American Lung Association, Lewis-Clark Region, presents a trophy to Theresa Skowron who attends Sacred Heart-St. Joseph School. Theresa was one of six runners-up from Madison, Jersey and Calhoun Counties who participated in a Lung Association No Smoking Poster Contest.

While it is not likely that most mushrooms involved in the recall are contaminated, anyone who purchased a can of the mushrooms with the above code is being urged to return it to the store where it was purchased, or to destroy it.

National and Kroger have removed any suspected cans from the shelves and signs are being posted in the Kroger stores, warning shoppers of the recall.

THREE ARE CHARGED

Charges of fighting were filed at 12:05 a.m. Saturday in the 2600 block of State Street against Larry Scaggs, 22, of 2322 Edison Ave., Donald Moseley, 19, of 2811 Palmer Ave. and Jonathan Zeigler, 20, of 406 Kirkpatrick Homes. Each was released on $5 bond. A wooden club and a tire tool were seized in an argument related to the way Scaggs and Zeigler were driving.

Mrs. Inis Gann explained the program, curriculum, goals, and procedures of the Happy Day Child Development Center. Mrs. Carol Frakes was to present an overview of the program for preschool children at Tri-City Tabernacle, but, because of the lateness of the hour, this program will be given at the first meeting of the Early Childhood Association in the fall.

After the speakers presented their programs, the guests enjoyed refreshments prepared by the children of the Humpty Dumpty Child Development Center.

There was a short discussion of possible future programs for next year's meetings, beginning in September.

Sacred Heart-St. Joseph holds graduation banquet

Sacred Heart-St. Joseph's School, 2800 Jerden Ave., held a graduation banquet in the school cafeteria.

The Class of '82, with 20 graduates, was honored by Brendan Baggett, Karen Buecker, Elecia Bush, Russell English, William Falbe, Helen Gain, Christopher Gundlach, Donna Haug, Sheila Hauptman, Steve Kusmierczak, Rhonda Mikulas, Mary Narup, Patrick Ramsey, Stephanie Rees, Vance Reznack, Richard Schierling, Carla Schutzenhofer, Tim Shevick, Frank Soellner and Jaime Ybarra—the third class to graduate since the merging of the two schools, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph's, in 1978.

The school cafeteria was decorated with red and white streamers, the colors of the graduation class. Red and white silhouettes of the graduates surrounding their past class pictures were posted on the wall behind the head table.

The head table, also decorated in red and white, was accented by two large floral arrangements. While the class motto, "It's Not The End; Just The Beginning," tied with red satin ribbons, bearing each graduate's name, were placed on the head table, marking each graduate's seating place. A large red and white banner bearing the class motto, hung above the speaker's podium.

After the banquet, Mrs. Bucatch, eighth grade teacher, presented awards to the class officers of the eighth grade civics club, a club designed to give students an insight as to how an organization is run.

Awards were presented to: Brendan Baggett, class president; Richard Schierling, vice-president; Carla Schutzenhofer, recording secretary; Jaime Ybarra, corresponding secretary; Karen Buecker, treasurer; and Stephanie Rees, sergeant-at-arms.

Fr. Victor presented the American Legion Award to two graduates, Carla Schutzenhofer and Steve Kusmierczak. This award is given to those showing outstanding leadership in civic duties.

A reading of the class colors, class motto and the gift to the school, namely, money for library books for the school, was given.

Karen Buecker and Russell English read thank you letters to the entire graduating class. William Falbe and Helen Gain gave a class history of St. Joseph's. This summary was written by two graduates—Elecia Bush and Jaime Ybarra—both parishioners of St. Joseph's.

Chris Gundlach and Donna Haug followed with a class history of Sacred Heart, written by Steve Kusmierczak and Sheila Hauptman. Sheila Hauptman, Steve Kusmierczak and Rhonda Mikulas read class traits. Mary Narup and Stephanie Rees read class predictions. Vance Reznack, Jaime Ybarra, Richard Schierling and Carla Schutzenhofer read last and testament.

At this time, Vance Reznack, on behalf of the graduation class, presented Mrs. Bucatch with a crystal candy dish.

Following this presentation, Tim Shevick and Elecia Bush read words of wisdom to the seventh grade and Frank Soellner read sports participants.

Class poems were written and read by Helen Gain, Karen Buecker, Stephanie Rees, Carla Schutzenhofer and Frank Soellner, summarizing the Class of '81.

Fr. Shortall closed the banquet by thanking everyone for attending. Special thanks were given to the seventh grade room mothers who decorated for and arranged the banquet, under the leadership of room mother chairman, Mrs. Nancy Conkovich.

Malaysian students plan performance

Malaysian students at SIUE will present "Grand Malaysian Student Cultural Performance" on Saturday, May 30, from 5:30 to 9 p.m. in the Compton-Sullivan Building theater.

Sponsored by the Council for Malaysian Students at SIUE, the activities will begin with food tasting of authentic Malaysian dishes. At 7 p.m., the program will include a wedding ceremony, dances, drama, poetry, martial arts and a fashion show. It is free and open to the public.

A. Aziz Hf. Sulaiman, president of the sponsoring organization, said this is the first program presented by Malaysian students here; there are 65 Malaysian students on campus, the second largest group of foreign students at the local university.

"We're holding this program to mutually exchange our cultural ideas, to gain recognition of our existence as Americans in communities, and to have a better understanding between the two in the future," said Sulaiman.

In addition to the SIUE students' performances, Malaysian students from Northern Illinois University at DeKalb, Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, SIU at Carbondale, Illinois State at Normal, Western Michigan at Kalamazoo, University of Missouri at both Columbia and St. Louis, and Southeast Missouri State at Cape Girardeau will present performances.

The program will be filmed and sent back to Malaysia to show the achievements of students in the United States.

3 CHARGES FILED
Janet Bailey, 31, of 4024 Lake Drive was arrested last week on charges of conduct outside Pantera's pizza restaurant. She also was charged with resisting arrest after allegedly showing a policeman, and with criminal property damage after allegedly kicking the left rear door window of the right rear door window of a patrol car. She was released an hour later on $257 bail.

inspectors, but as lay people viewing the buildings and reacting to what they saw. As a result of the tour, the group recommended that both buildings if properly maintained would provide essentially the same quality of educational services to primary students, therefore it was recommended that the Blair building not be closed as part of any desegregation plan recommended by the committee.

Blair's primary school facilities, Blair and Harris Schools, are very similar in appearance and design and identical in operation and maintenance. Blair has an enrollment of approximately 204 students, all black at the time of this writing. Earlier this year there was one white student enrolled. Blair has 13 classrooms with a capacity of 300 students (30 per room). Class size at Blair average about 20 students.

Harris has an enrollment of approximately 355 students, of which 27 percent are black, and 45 are special education students. Its capacity of 540 students was designed for about 30 students per room. The Harris facility houses three primary self-contained special education classes.

Both buildings have teaching and administrative personnel that are well qualified in operation and training. Staff has been integrated since the 1969-1970 school year.

Both buildings provide students with services in: Speech therapy, learning disabilities, Title I Remedial Reading, mathematics, counseling, music, limited supervised physical education, health needs, and social work needs.

It was the consensus of the committee that the district and the community had integrated grades four through twelve with "relative ease." Up to this time integration meant the busing of black children to schools that were located in the predominantly white area. Now the committee feels that if we are to have a successful integration of students at the primary level (K-3) there must be a busing of the busing experience by the predominantly white community.

Plans and components of plans were discussed by the committee. Each person was encouraged to participate. As is the case with any group some contributed verbally more than others but our attendance averaged about 95 percent of those who were less verbal provided input by their presence.

Some of the suggestions and discussions had to do with:

- a. Pupil reassignment and transferring to meet state legal requirements.
- b. Grade reorganization in which even the Middle School and Louis Baer would have been involved.
- c. Open enrollment.
- d. Magnet problems.
- e. School closing.
- f. Probable future composition of the school and the district.
- g. Racial identity of the residents in the attendance area of each school.
- h. The affect on racial composition of the schools by the busing process.
- i. Transportation.
- j. a cost.
- k. pick-up points as opposed to centralized locations.

The next part of the report will show the makeup of the two schools with regard to physical facilities, personnel, and services provided.

Transitional costs would be less.
It will be easier to maintain community relations.

Community would be more receptive to the rest of the desegregation plan.

Weaknesses:
Blair Kindergarten would remain racially identifiable.

Quality of education will be probably affected since there would be a need to increase class size at Harris. A physical facility would be limited.

b. student activities would be limited.
Black community bears the brunt of the busing.

The appointment is effective immediately, subject to ratification by the chancellor and SIUE Board of Trustees.

Dr. Reiner has been a member of the SIUE staff since 1969 and director of the Office of Institutional Research and Studies since 1971. He also holds faculty rank as associate professor of counselor education.

Illinois Bell is seeking measured service billing

By early 1982, business customers of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. will be paying for phone use according to how many calls they make, rather than having a flat charge for most of their calls, Kenneth Evers, manager for the Granite City office of Illinois Bell, predicts.

"Now, you might have a shoe store next to a collection agency. Obviously, the shoe store will make only a few calls a week while the collection agency may make hundreds a day, yet both pay the same basic rate for a business phone."

"It is essential. With the future of the telephone industry and the introduction of competition, we are going to have to start pricing our service on a usage basis," Evers said in announcing that Illinois Bell plans soon to ask the Illinois Commerce Commission to change from basic business service charges to "measured service" by early 1982.

"If this Bell explains the collection agency will pay more for phone service while the shoe store will pay less," Evers explained. Residential customers will not be affected, he added.

A news release prepared by Illinois Bell explains that currently, 59 percent of all business lines (or 45 percent of all business customers) in Illinois have measured services. In Chicago, measured service has been used for more than 60 years and in the nearby Chicago suburban areas, measured service has been optional for the 52 inner metropolitan area exchanges on an optional service.

The remaining 41 percent of the business lines in Illinois would be converted to measured service, if the commerce commission grants the request.

"We expect that the majority of these customers would actually pay less under measured service than under their present 'flat rate' service," the release says, adding, "Surveys among business customers in Ohio and New York show that the majority (65 percent in Ohio and 75 percent in New York) would have lower bills under measured service, without reducing their use of the phone."

"Based on existing rates, the price for local service and the usage allowance would be the same for all our business customers. A basic monthly rate for local service of $12.25 per month, with an allowance of 75 message units. This compares to a typical monthly flat rate charge of $19.35," the release says.

It notes that, "The gap between low and high volume users among business customers has widened dramatically over the past few years," and said that 10 percent of business customers make about 26 percent of the total calls. About 6.5 percent of business customers make one call a day or less, studies in other states show.

The average local calling rate of business customers in other states is about seven cents a day, but 59 percent call even less than that, the news release contends.

"And yet, under flat rate, all business customers pay the same, regardless of their usage," it adds. It notes studies of Illinois business customers is underway and similar results are expected.

"Measured service is a fairer way to pay for telephone service, since the higher users pay more because their usage is greater. The telephone is being used in more ways today than ever before."

"Looking ahead, this trend will continue and it does not make sense that the business customer making only a few calls a day should continue to be penalized by paying the same 'averaged' rate as the higher user—especially since continuing inflation and increased usage will drive up the cost of providing local service."

"Under this proposal, high users will begin to pay their share of the costs of providing service—it seems fair to us that those who use more service pay more for it, while those who use less service pay less," the release says.

It notes that use of the telephone generates business and is a business expense, therefore, businesses should pay by usage, it contends.

It also notes that even in Chicago, a majority of residential customers have measured service, even though there is a residential flat-rate option. Even as measured service becomes available elsewhere in the state to residential customers, the phone company plans to offer optional flat rate and message rate packages, it pledges.

Evers said he is confident the new pricing package for business users will be approved because measured rate charges are fairer to all businesses.

He said the phone company probably would have used measured rates from its inception, except that the job of timing and billing every telephone call would have been impossible until the introduction of modern technology to keep track of each call.

SOUTH BAND CONCERT TONIGHT CANCELLED

The stage band concert scheduled for tonight at Granite City High School South auditorium has been cancelled, according to an announcement by Joseph Owens, band director.

John 14:15... "If you love me, keep my commandments."
Our Lord is well pleased with obedience. Even above sacrifice. Whatever we render unto God in the way of love, devotion, and service, will be judged in the light of our willingness to give. God loves a cheerful giver.

Out of obedience and devotion arises an habitual faith which makes God, though unseen, a part of our life. He leads us and guides us in a sure path. He never leaves us forsaken. God is faithful to His people.

Let us be faithful to God. How is this best done? By keeping His commandments. If we truly love Him, we will keep His commandments. By doing this you will show God your love. And, you'll have the rest of the world also.

Love God. Today.

In Good Spirits!

by GEORGE CREWS

If someone were to ask what is the oldest distilled spirits in the world, you would be quite correct to say rum. A distillation from the fermented juice of sugar cane, rum is produced in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Hawaii, Jamaica, as well as other West Indian and South American locations — and even in New England under the name New England rum. Rums can, quite easily, be placed into two categories: light and dry or heavy and flavorful. Light rums are produced at high proof, usually between 180 and 185, while dark rums are distilled at considerably lower proof in pot stills. If you enjoy the occasional daiquiri or grog, you're in good company. Rum is reputed to have helped inspire the patriots to make a stable teapot of Boston Harbor, it was considered a necessary ration for the Continental Army (as used by the British Navy) and George Washington reportedly lifted a cup now and again.

The word "prayer" sometimes conjures up the notion of asking for something. We pray for well-being, happiness and forgiveness. While these are all valid things to want for ourselves and our loved ones, there are more sides to prayer. Very often, we wish to say "thanks" for all that we already possess. Substituting the word "appreciation" for "prayer" is more apt in these cases. Moments of silent appreciation require no special occasion or need. Prayer is the realization of life's possibility and our humble part in it. Whatever word is chosen, prayer need only be silent unworded appreciation.

One's preferences for ways of giving thanks and prayer are as numerous as people themselves. At MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES we are constantly meeting more and more requests from our friends to preplan the tribute service they desire so that their preferences may be observed. If you have questions or wish to establish your wishes for final tribute, let the staff of MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES answer your questions and assist in such planning.

No winner in flag contest

A "Flag Waving" contest in which $100 was to be awarded to a resident picked at random if the resident was flying the American flag at his home, was held in connection with Memorial Day services at Wilson Park Monday.

Steve Konkovich who originated the contest a year ago said the local resident whose name was drawn was not flying the flag at his residence, so there was no winner and the cash prize was not awarded.

No winner was selected in last year's contest. Konkovich said another selection will be made next year.

23 participate in Operation Snowball

Students from the Granite City and Madison school districts were among 23 Madison County youths who participated in the one-day Operation Snowball event earlier this month in Edwardsville, sponsored by the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency (MCCADD). Operation Snowball, which grew out of the Illinois Teenage Institute, is a drug and alcohol prevention strategy which emphasizes peer pressure, drug and alcohol education and exercises in problem solving to help guide youths away from the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

Gerald Casey from Lewis and Clark Community

College spoke on communication and Richard Marks, the youth service coordinator for the Collinsville Police Department, discussed the legal aspects of drugs. A Karate demonstration by Dan Tegel, a MCCADD staff member, after lunch concluded the day and each participant was given an Operation Snowball t-shirt. Besides students from Granite City and Madison, students from Troy and adults from the three areas participated "and came away with a better understanding of each other," according to Jean Schram, coordinator of youth services projects for MCCADD.

Heartworm in dogs can be prevented

"Dog owners can save their pets pain and suffering — even an early death — from canine heartworm if they act early enough and take these pets in to their local veterinarian for some preventive medicine," according to Dr. J. D. Noyes, D.V.M. of Barrington, Ill. Dr. Noyes, for a number of years, has been chairman of the canine heartworm committee of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association (ISVMA), spearheading a research program and public information service about the disease.

"A simple blood test is usually enough to tell if a dog is free of adult heartworms," Dr. Noyes said, "and medication can be prescribed to keep your dog free."

"If heartworms are found," the veterinarian said, "treatment can still be prescribed that in most cases will restore a dog to health."

"Dog owners can suspect heartworms," Dr. Noyes said, "if their pets show signs of coughing more than usual — especially if the dog coughs up blood — or if the dog seems to tire easily, acts listless, if he has difficulty in breathing, or if his coat seems unusually rough."

The common mosquito — any one of some 30 varieties is responsible for the spread of canine heartworm. And the time to take preventative action is before the mosquito season is in full swing.

Any cruising mosquito can take a tiny drop of blood from an already-infected dog and, with that blood, take into its own body a number of microscopic immature heartworms. These incubate in the mosquito for about two weeks and, when the mosquito bites another dog, the tiny heartworms are passed on.

Deadline on car license stickers

Secretary of State Jim Edgar has reminded passenger car owners with license plate registrations expiring at midnight Sunday, May 31, that it's getting late to purchase their brown 1982 stickers.

Edgar said the stickers, which should be displayed in the upper right corner of the rear plates, may be purchased over the counter at the secretary of state's Springfield and Chicago facilities and at many financial institutions participating in the license renewal program.

Anyone driving a car with an expired green, May 1981 sticker will be subject to a fine for improper registration beginning Monday, June 1. Edgar said, "If you have any questions about the secretary of state's office, use our toll-free telephone number (800-252-8880) and call us."

$62.5 million replacement tax to local governments

Checks totaling $62.5 million in corporate personal property replacement taxes have been sent to local units of government in the fourth of eight payments to be made during 1981, according to J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

This brings the total distributed so far in 1981 to $279.9 million, according to Johnson.

The largest share of this money—some $146 million (52 percent)—has gone to the 1,018 public school districts in Illinois. Municipalities have received $57.1 million, or approximately 20 percent of the total distributed to date. County governments have received $24.2 million, about 8.7 percent of the total. The remaining 20 percent was shared by townships and special districts.

ARREST BY DEPUTIES

It was alleged that aluminum cans worth $27 had been taken from the Raymond Yount yard near Nameoki and Morrison roads.

Politics affects health care

(This is the 13th in a series of 15 articles exploring "The Nation's Health." In this article, economist Paul J. Feldstein discusses the major interest groups that have influenced health care legislation. Copyright (c) 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.)

National health insurance paralyzed. Hospital cost containment, defeated. Everyone connected to the health care industry wants change: improved access to care, better quality, lower cost. There is less unanimity on the means to achieve these goals.

There is a struggle among special interest groups to influence health care policy in order to benefit their own constituents.

Although legislators and other government officials are pledged to represent the public interest in attaining better health care, the unfortunate truth is that the clash of interest groups that determines government policy in a democratic society does not necessarily benefit the public.

Today the government — at the local, state, or federal level — oversees all elements of health care. State medical and dental practice acts define what health professionals can perform.

The education of health professionals, medical research, and hospital construction are all heavily subsidized by government. This extensive government involvement is in large part the result of pressures from health interest groups that have influenced health legislation and regulation.

These interest groups represent:

- (1) Medical, dental, nursing, and other health professions, as well as non-professional workers.
- (2) Hospitals, nursing homes, and other institutional providers.
- (3) Health insurance companies.
- (4) Drug and hospital supply companies and equipment manufacturers.
- (5) Medical and other health professions schools.
- (6) Health planning agencies; and
- (7) A multiplicity of other providers, such as home physicians, hospitals, insurance companies, and the drug industry.

While health interest groups support improved health care through the measures they promote, they want to insure that their own interests are protected as well.

SELF-REGULATION. The health professions made the earliest attempts at influencing government policy through advocacy of legislation that delegated authority to licensure boards consisting of representatives of the profession, for example, medicine or dentistry.

Regulation by the profession starts with a licensure requirement that places restrictions on who can enter the profession. Educational requirements are defined and examinations devised. Schools and their curricula must be approved.

Such an approach toward ensuring competence in a profession also limits the number of persons in that profession.

Other groups have had success in establishing licensure and educational requirements. But most, like nurses, for example, have remained subordinate to physicians.

There is continual competition in the legislative marketplace among different professions and providers to increase their own roles and responsibilities at the expense of other professions.

Many of the present legal restrictions cannot be justified in terms of quality of care, as there are usually more direct approaches to ensuring professional competence.

Rather, these regulations are often stimulated by the prospect of economic benefit for one of the health professions.

SPECIAL INTEREST LEGISLATION. Competition among the health professions has not generated public controversy, principally because it is not general knowledge that legislative benefits to the professions increase the cost of care.

Hospital construction subsidies, present methods of hospital and physician payment, programs to alleviate the shortage of nurses seem small and uncontroversial and are, thus, not very threatening to politicians who support such special interest legislation.

Over the years, federal financing of health programs has increased dramatically. Health interest groups have proliferated, and national health organizations have become entrenched in Washington, D.C.

More controversial legislation such as national health insurance, which would redistribute benefits among different socioeconomic groups in society, has been proposed since the 1930s.

By providing extensive political support to congressmen, and by conducting extensive public relations programs, organized medicine has been able to oppose such proposals effectively.

The 1960s, however, ushered in a new wave of federal health policy. Rising costs of care had become a burden for the aged and the poor. Congress and the executive branch wanted to respond to this politically popular cause.

Doctors and hospitals saw proposed federal legislation to meet the health needs of the poor and elderly as a grave threat to their independence.

The battle raged through three presidential administrations. In order to secure its passage, the government made certain that the legislation was structured to include participation of doctors and hospitals.

The legislation assured that traditional billing practices of doctors and hospitals would not be eroded.

Millions of the poor and aged received vital medical care, through Medicare and Medicaid, but the costs far exceeded early estimates. Total health expenditures increased enormously, from $10.8 billion in 1960 to $43 billion in 1967, and $150 billion in 1977.

Government costs rose even more rapidly. Because of the astute dealings in Washington, physicians and hospitals were large beneficiaries of these government-support programs.

HEALTH INTERESTS ARE PUBLIC INTERESTS. Health interest groups have a "concentrated" interest in health issues.

For example, because their incomes will be most affected by policies specifying how they are to be paid in such programs as Medicare and Medicaid, physicians have an incentive to lobby for favorable legislation.

Although patients are affected by such policies, the impact is relatively small; health is only one of many services they buy, and they are often unaware that legislation affecting methods of payment and quality control will increase prices and taxes they must pay.

Interest groups provide campaign contributions and elect officials in the executive branch respond because they want to be re-elected.

Because of the rapidly rising costs of medical care in the late 1960s, however, the executive branch of the federal government proposed controls on health expenditures, placing itself in opposition to health interest groups.

To date, these groups have been able to forestall strong controls in Congress and many state legislatures.

Nevertheless, the dominance of health interest groups in the health policy arena, which had long gone unchallenged, has begun to generate opposition from many sectors of society — other health interest groups, government, labor, and business groups — who are straining under the staggering costs of health care.

It is possible that increased competition in the legislative marketplace from a more diverse set of participants will lessen the dominance of a few selected groups.

Such competition might, in the long run, lead to a less costly, more rational health care system.

Next: Professor Lowell S. Levin of Yale University discusses the role of the individual in providing for his or her own health.

Paul J. Feldstein, Ph.D., today's author, is a professor at the University of Michigan, where he has been teaching in both the Department of Economics and the Program in Hospital Administration of the School of Public Health since 1964.

He was previously director of the Division of Research of the American Hospital Association, and he has been an advisor to numerous government and health agencies.

His books include "Health Care Economics," "Health Associations and the Demand for Legislation: The Political Economy of Health," and "Financing Dental Care."

Continue bus subsidy until better alternative is found

Nobody is especially happy over the quarter-cent sales tax that finances a state-required local bus subsidy in Madison County.

But a lot of people are happy that bus service is continuing. And they seem willing to see the tax go on for the time being—until a better alternative can be found, if there is one.

A resolution adopted at last week's Madison County Board meeting calls on the Illinois Transportation Study Commission to take a look at the whole structure of mass transit funding, already a lively topic at Springfield due to legislators' efforts to help the Chicago-area Regional Transportation Authority make ends meet.

The resolution asks the Madison County Transit District to request that the commission "specifically address the development of alternative financing systems—and the issues of equity—with regard to requirements for locally-generated funds, and other methods of generating state funds which would be less disruptive to Madison County."

It pictures the subsidy as being "unfair and unjust to residents."

Anthony Bosich, the County Board member who introduced the resolution, said that, if the county could devise a different system of paying for mass transit, the local county would want some of the money to be spent in this area. He remarked, "I've never liked the tax to come back this way. I feel like the legislature should be paying for this, not the taxpayers of Madison County."

Bosich voiced concern that state legislative proposals to finance the RTA would do little or nothing for this county.

County Board Member William Hain, chairman of the transit district's board (others are Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Edwardsville Supervisor Robert Stille), said he has no objection to the resolution. "I've never liked the tax from the start (Feb. 1, 1981). We just did what we could when the state mandated it."

"The district has succeeded in gaining a major voice in the route issue, affecting this county," and has signed a formal contract for transit services provided by the Bi-State Development Agency.

Meanwhile, St. Clair County decided to shut off its local-level sales tax contributions to Bi-State, which then voted to sharply reduce bus service in St. Clair.

Proportion of the profits of small companies that they do of corporate profits. Average net profit margins of small firms — those with 50 or fewer employees — are considerably lower than those of corporations in general.

Characteristically, small companies rely heavily on reinvested profits as source of capital. Therefore, high income tax rates exert a greater drag on income by small firms than by companies that have greater access to outside sources of capital.

It is a fact of life that small firms have difficulty getting funds through the national equity, bond and commercial paper market.

Contrary to the belief in some quarters, the Small Business Administration loan program is not a significant source of capital — the number of SBA direct and guaranteed loans was only about 31,000 last year.

Though there is need for other tax relief that the business community has long favored — depreciation reform, reduction in capital gains taxes, and higher investment tax credits — let's put the focus on an area that has not received enough attention.

The proposed 30 percent phased reduction in income tax rates will help small firms directly by lowering their tax bills. It will help them indirectly by making more capital available in general. And it will help to help business help others. The small business sector generates most new jobs in the country.

Transit District Manager Susan Schold sees the Madison County resolution as significant in that it was enacted by the Madison County Board, representing the whole population. But she concedes that the state study which is being sought could not be completed in time for the spring's General Assembly deliberations.

She adds, "There are any number of proposals being considered right now in Springfield. Whatever comes out of this session will be done very quickly. But this is a problem that needs extensive study; there are no quick-fix solutions."

The quarter-cent sales tax creates problems for example, a merchant who has a lot of small items to sell can't go to charge someone ¼-cent on a 30-cent purchase. At the end of the year, he has to pay that tax in a larger sum for all those items. He could raise prices to cover it, but is that fair?

The federal government plans to reduce its present share of subsidy for Illinois transportation systems, and this burden will have to be picked up by the state and districts. The bottom line is that we are going to be paying more for our transportation services.

"The U.S. says about one-third of the cost right now. The State Transportation Department and legislature are going to have to consider what will happen to mass transportation in Illinois when this amount is reduced."

Comments brought out at last week's County Board meeting indicated that most of the board members want to give the local district a full year of operation before evaluating its value.

Members stressed their view that continuation of regional and local bus service is in the public interest and praised the transit district for its actions, policies and accomplishments to date.

While calling for a review of bus funding, the County Board at the same time is avoiding sending any message to the state that the county is against a local subsidy. It is that subsidy which has given this area more control over its transit future than is enjoyed by any other area within the bi-state metropolitan service.

Exactly what that future will bring is unknown, but it has to be a desirable situation that does not include bus service as an indispensable ingredient of life in this community and region.

Job growth linked to passage of big income tax cut

Nation's Business magazine — Few national policy changes could help small business as much as the Reagan income tax cuts.

Surprisingly, this is one of the most overlooked elements of the administration's program: a 30 percent reduction in personal income tax rates over a three-year period.

Opponents of restructuring the income tax system focus on the fact that what poor, inflation-racked souls will do with those dollars he won't have to give the Internal Revenue Service.

These critics contend that the consumer will take the money and run out and buy adding to the upward pressure on prices.

Supporters of the president's concept believe that the tax reduction will create incentives to save and invest, thus generating jobs. The debate will go on at least until tangible evidence is in hand.

We are convinced that the president's supporters will be proven correct: If the Reagan income tax package passes, we think the whole nation will have cause to celebrate. Inflation will get a downward shove, and living standards will rise.

No segment of the economy will have more reason for celebration than small business.

According to the most recent IRS Statistics of Income, more than 14.7 million income tax returns were filed in 1979 by business owners or partners, particularly in the service and retail sectors.

Of that number, 1.8 million were taxed at corporate rates, leaving nearly 13 million businesses — mainly small — paying at individual rates. Thus, the proposed individual rate reductions have special significance for small business.

Income taxes take a substantially larger proportion of the profits of small companies than they do of corporate profits. Average net profit margins of small firms — those with 50 or fewer employees — are considerably lower than those of corporations in general.

Characteristically, small companies rely heavily on reinvested profits as source of capital. Therefore, high income tax rates exert a greater drag on income by small firms than by companies that have greater access to outside sources of capital.

It is a fact of life that small firms have difficulty getting funds through the national equity, bond and commercial paper market.

Contrary to the belief in some quarters, the Small Business Administration loan program is not a significant source of capital — the number of SBA direct and guaranteed loans was only about 31,000 last year.

Though there is need for other tax relief that the business community has long favored — depreciation reform, reduction in capital gains taxes, and higher investment tax credits — let's put the focus on an area that has not received enough attention.

The proposed 30 percent phased reduction in income tax rates will help small firms directly by lowering their tax bills. It will help them indirectly by making more capital available in general. And it will help to help business help others. The small business sector generates most new jobs in the country.

We agree with the president — it is time to try something new. The income tax reduction is vital for small business and for the nation. Their fates are intertwined.

"polished" version, it was decided that the entire plan for SIMARPC, Tom Wobbe, will make the minor changes recommended by the Road Commission. The commission then will discuss the proposal with Granite City aldermen. A public hearing will be held on the new land use ordinance is finally in effect.

Granite City aldermen were invited to attend yesterday's discussion, but none were present.

Against user fees by Coast Guard

The House Coast Guard and Navigation Subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Gerry E. Studds (D-Maine), held hearings May 19 on the Administration's proposal to assess user fees for Coast Guard services.

Appearing on behalf of the American Waterways Operators were Thomas L. Gladders, president, G. W. Gladders Towing Co., Inc., and vice-chairman of the SWO board of directors, and Robert W. Sanders, vice-president, Turecamo Coastal and Harbor Towing Corp.

Gladders and Sanders were introduced to the subcommittee by Capt. Arthur M. Knight, president, Boston Tow Boat Co.

AWO questioned the fairness of the Administration's proposed user fee legislation and made recommendations for a more balanced cost recovery program.

Members of the subcommittee expressed doubts about the very concept of charging fees for certain Coast Guard services.

Although the Administration submitted to Congress its proposals to charge Coast Guard user fees in mid-March, they have not yet been introduced in either the House or Senate.

However, during deliberations of the House and Senate budget proposals, the conference committee report contained reconciliation instructions which essentially require the Administration to report Coast Guard user fee legislation out of committee by June 12.

This instruction provided the impetus for a highly charged question and answer session between members of the subcommittee and Deputy Secretary of Transportation Darrell M. Trent, who appeared before the committee.

In his opening statement, Chairman Studds said that the hearing was not only to consider aspects of the Administration bill but also to focus on the broader philosophical question of whether it is appropriate to consider charging user fees for benefits which have historically been provided as a public service by the Coast Guard.

"Is it either appropriate or wise," he asked, "for us to begin now to attempt to quantify in dollars and cents the value of the myriad of services provided by the Coast Guard to the category of the millions of American and foreign citizens who benefit from them?"

Rep. Don Young (R-Ark.), ranking minority member of the subcommittee, expressed his concerns that the proposal would give the Executive Branch unlimited authority to charge for what is really a benefit to the public as a whole.

It would give the Executive Branch authority to charge where no benefit is received.

The jurisdiction and scope of the proposal will cause undue administrative burdens and distortions in who will bear the burden of paying these fees; and certain inequities will result from the proposal, such as favored treatment for foreign fishing vessels, Young said.

Secretary Trent discussed the Administration's philosophy regarding user charges, stating that those who obtain valuable services from the government-funded facilities should pay for them; those who do not, should not be asked to share the cost.

"For the market to operate as an effective allocator of resources, the price of goods and services must reflect their costs," he said.

Trent noted that commercial vessels engaged in inland waterway transportation that are currently paying the fuel tax imposed by the Federal Inland Revenue Act of 1978 would be excluded from the proposed tonnage fee.

He said the Administration is currently developing procedures to collect Coast Guard costs from these vessels in a manner consistent with the Administration's inland waterway user fee proposal.

He also stated that the proposal and questioned the Administration's apparent singling out of Coast Guard benefits for recovery by user fees, as opposed to other services provided by the federal government.

He emphasized the Committee's long tradition of support for the Coast Guard and its attempts to increase the agency's operating budget.

He and other subcommittee members said they failed to see how the Administration's plan would benefit the Coast Guard.

Gladders emphasized in his testimony that "as an industry, we are very much concerned that the burden we are being asked to share is disproportionate to the benefits being asked of other modes of transportation."

"The barge and towing industry has always demonstrated a spirit of cooperation and a willingness to shoulder its responsibilities."

Members of the subcommittee said that our obligations be reasonable, equitable and consistent with the goal of improving this nation's first-class transportation system."

He urged that the Coast Guard be required to report to Congress on the various expenditures for the various services it provides.

The report should include specific data on manpower and resource allocations for each major service provided by the Coast Guard and should also identify those responsibilities which might reasonably be transferred to the private sector.

He also called for approvals, inspections, maintenance of aids to navigation, and icebreaking activities as possibilities.

Sanders' testimony discussed primarily the views of coastal operators, who noted that one of the immediate problems of the proposed legislation is the difficult task of deciding who bears the cost of the service.

The immediate reaction, he said, seems to be that vessels, which are highly visible and closely associated with the functions of the Coast Guard, are a logical starting place to apply a user fee.

However, he noted there are others who benefit from the services who may not be as visible or come to mind as quickly.

For example, part of the Coast Guard's rationale for proposing user fees for vessel traffic services was to protect the environment by eliminating the possibility of collisions and accidents.

"It was understood that part of the environment protected included our fishing grounds, the wetlands, recreational boating and beaches, as well as the quality of the water itself. All of these would benefit from the safety engendered by a vessel traffic service," Sanders said.

AWO concluded its testimony by saying that the Coast Guard's complex attainment of equitable legislation for user charges.

Other witnesses included the American Fisheries Association, the Maritime Institute for Research and Industrial Development, the Seafarers' International Union, and panels representing the recreational boating and fisheries industries.

None of these groups supported the Administration's proposal.

One youth is lying at the point of death in St. Elizabeth's Hospital and another is being held for questioning by local police and fire authorities following a mysterious gasoline explosion and subsequent fire which razed a brick grocery building at 2838 West Twentieth street Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. The detonation was heard for blocks around and caused a total loss estimated at $7,500. The small brick structure was levelled to the ground by the explosion. Windows in the front were hurled across the street and one in the rear of the building was blown out, casing and all, without breaking a pane of glass.

At 1:50 p.m. on Friday, the last steel joist to be produced at Laclede Steel Company's Madison plant came off the fabricating line. It was a size 32x12 joist, 20 feet, seven inches long, headed for installation in a hospital building at Norristown, Pa. Thus ended over 40 years of joist production at Laclede Steel Co. Laclede entered the joist business in the early 1930s and for several years shipped an average of nearly 3,100 tons of joists each month.

Home searches, costly repairs would be intolerable oppression

To the Editor:

I could hardly believe the article in the Thursday, May 21, paper about the occupancy permits.

It seems to me that our officials should be trying to raise our population back to 40,000 instead of chasing new families away.

That's just what this so-called ordinance is bound to do.

Who's going to put out money for all those permits just to live in Granite City, when we already have pollution problem that keeps some families away?

Then, the part of the ordinance that says the inspector would have the right to come into the homes of the families already living here, and inspect them, is shocking.

This is unconstitutional, in my book.

If they want in my home, they had better bring more than their say-so. Our police can't even search a home without a search warrant.

Then, if they do get in and think it's not safe, they can make us get a permit to live in our homes until the work is completed.

What happens to poor families which do not have the money for repairs?

I can't think of any family which would live in a house that would be a threat to the family.

Also, heaven help the person who gets a job elsewhere and wants to sell his home. There will be so many things he'll have to do that he couldn't possibly sell.

I think everyone should wake up to what is going to happen here if our officials pass this ordinance.

If my history memory doesn't fail me, these are some of the things that started the Revolutionary War, like illegal entry.

I, for one, am going to stand up for my rights. Let our officials know how you feel! Remind them that even our president is trying to get the government off people's backs.

It's supposed to be a government by the people and for the people — not by the officials for more fees.

Many drivers are too careless

To the Editor:

Reading a May 18 account of careless driving reminded me of another bad incident, 29th Street and Madison Avenue.

Madison Avenue is a city street within the limits of the City of Granite City. Automobile traffic should be controlled to less than highway travel speed, which is not done.

Any hour, any day, one can see an automobile driving too fast where there are pedestrians.

I doubt very much whether all drivers know that a pedestrian in the crosswalk has the right-of-way over approaching traffic, as per "Rules of the Road" put out by the State of Illinois.

This publication is obtainable at 1815 Edison Ave. and it might be to drivers' benefit to read and heed its contents.

Maybe, just maybe, the remedy is a stiff fine for careless drivers and their speeding.

GRANITE CITY — Funny thing, this game baseball. Before the current prep season began, Granite City North coach Bob Stegemeier said he'd have been happy if his team won five ball games, citing lack of experience as the main reason. Wednesday afternoon, Stegemeier's team continued to amaze its coach. The Steelers won their 16th game of the season with a 5-2 win over Alton in the championship game of the Granite North Class AA Regional. Paul Barrington was the winning pitcher, going five-and-a-third innings. Paul Eads got the save.

And it was Dan Patterson's day. All the way. Patterson, the Steelers' second baseman, was three-for-three and the plate with two doubles and two RBI. His three errors in the sixth inning led to both of Alton's runs. But after the game, all was well with the young team as they celebrated their second regional championship luncheon.

Last night at North's baseball banquet, Patterson was named Most Valuable Player by his teammates. "Danny did the job, didn't he?" asked Stegemeier, as the Steelers whooped it up in the background. "He has a bad inning there in the sixth, but he made up for it at the plate. He hit two doubles and just does a hell of a job."

"This has to be one of the most satisfying wins we've had since I've been here," said Stegemeier. "You know, this team wasn't that good early in the year. But they work so damn hard. There isn't that much experience on the team. But they've come through."

Indeed, North touched Alton ace Gordon Green for nine hits, including three doubles — the other was by sophomore catcher Darren DeFew. "Darren did a good job behind the plate," said Stegemeier. "But then, he always does." DeFew seems destined to be one of the best catchers in Southwestern Illinois.

"DeFew? He's a dandy," said Alton coach Felix Macias, whose team finished the season at 13-10. "He does the job for them. But they got clutch hitting from just about everybody."

"Gordon didn't pitch too badly if you take away that first inning," Macias said. "But you have to count them all."

Macias said his team has unusual problems. "We don't have any facilities," he said. "They (Alton School Board) cut out freshman baseball two years ago and we don't have any jayvees, either."

One of these days, the administration better wake up, or baseball's gonna be gone. "But that's not why we lost. We lost to a good ball club today. They beat us."

North wasted little time getting on the scoreboard. After Jeff Puryear led off the first inning with a deep out to leftfield, Scott Corey singled up the middle. After he stole second, he came in to score when DeFew doubled to deep centerfield. Rick Buer filed out to deep center for the second out and then Patterson stroked to the plate and stroked a double to the same spot as DeFew's, who scored on the play.

The Steelers added a run in the fourth inning when Patterson singled with one out, stole second and scored when Mark Hessler singled. Steve Prittschuh singled, sending Hessler to second, but the two were left stranded.

"We got the hits when we needed them today," said Stegemeier. North scored its last two runs in the top of the sixth (North was the visiting team). Buer led off with a single and scored on Patterson's second double. Hessler singled with one out, scoring Patterson.

In the bottom of the sixth, however, Alton almost got its foot back in the door. After Scott Burgess walked leading off, Hessler third have any jayvees, either.

South holds off Oilers in semifinals

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press-Record

ALTON — Give the Granite City South Warriors one inning and they'll take it from there. The last two games South's girls softball team have played have been highlighted by a barrage of runs in one inning. The Warriors again came up with that one big inning here Wednesday and they can be thankful they did.

South used a six run opening frame against Wood River and then had to hold off the Oilers in their bid for a comeback to preserve a 10-8 win in the semifinals of the Alton Marquette Class AA Softball Regional.

It sends the Warriors into the championship game here today at 4 p.m. in a matchup that has developed into a fierce rivalry throughout the season. South will face the Cahokia Comanches, who downed East St. Louis 6-4 in the other semifinal contest.

Today's meeting will mark the fourth time the two teams have met this year. The Warriors hold a two games to one edge in the season encounters.

"I'm glad we're playing Cahokia, because I know we can beat them," said South head coach Pat Yates. "We have least played them before. We have never played East St. Louis in the regular season."

South, now 13-6, had to work for that fourth meeting, too. A determined Wood River team, which finished the season at 17-7, wasn't about to go down without a fight.

It's true that the last out is always the hardest one to get. South had cushioned its margin to 10-5 in the sixth when Susan Jeffries doubled in Vickie Smith and Natalie Buster sent Jeffries home with a single.

Warrior starting pitcher Karen Spencer had little trouble recording the first two outs. She didn't realize it was going to take five batters before she could end the game. Wood River came up with back-to-back doubles and a single to shave South's lead to two. It was apparent that Spencer would finally make that last out as she forced Oiler starting hurler Moea Downer to pop up to her.

"I'm really proud of these girls," said Wood River head coach Sandy Magurany. "They have fought back all year and they deserve the record the got." The Oilers certainly made a game of it, but they could have done more damage had they been able to pick up the 12 runners they left on base.

"I'm glad we got those six runs in the first inning," said Yates. "We like to get an early lead if we can. Once we can get a nice hit and a base runner on, it spurs them (South) on."

What better person to start an attack than Warrior Tina Sedabres. She led-off the contest by drilling a double. An error after a walk quickly loaded the base. Wood River helped with the initial two runs as Downer walked in the first two tallies, but Nita Graham did the rest.

With the bases still loaded and nobody out, she cracked a double to left-centerfield that cleared the bases. A single from Kathy Fiegl completed the onslaught. Maybe six runs wasn't enough, because Wood River didn't think it was.

Backed by a remarkable four hits from Patty Russo, which included two doubles and four RBI, the Oilers pecked away with a run in second, three in the third and one in the sixth. "I think they (South) felt pretty down during the game, because Wood River kept chipping away at the lead," said Yates. However, when it was needed, South managed to come up with a couple of insurance runs.

Sedabres' one-out single in the fourth led to a run. She stole second and moved to third on an error. Smith then lifted a fly ball to center to score Sedabres. South got another in the fifth as Graham walked, moved to second on Wood River's third error and scored on Fiegl's second RBI single.

Houston makes NCAA Finals as freshman

By PETE HAYES

CHARLESTON — Dave Houston was here Saturday at the annual Illinois State Track Meet at Eastern Illinois University. But this time, he was watching instead of running.

Houston, a freshman distance runner at EIU, was watching the best prep runners in the state at the State Finals at O'Brien Field. Last year at this time, he was one of them.

A graduate of Granite City South, Houston established himself as one of the best distance runners in the area during his four years there. His accomplishments were good enough to get him on the EIU track team, one of the best NCAA Division II teams in the nation. And in his freshman season, he's going to the national tournament, which began this morning at Western Illinois University in Macomb.

"This has to be the year," said Houston, who qualified in the 1,500 meter run. "Next year, we're going Division II. It'll be a lot harder than this."

Houston's progress at Eastern has been steady this season. He qualified for the national meet with a time of 4:49.8.

Eastern Panthers who qualified for the national meet. He says his team is hoping for a finish in the top ten.

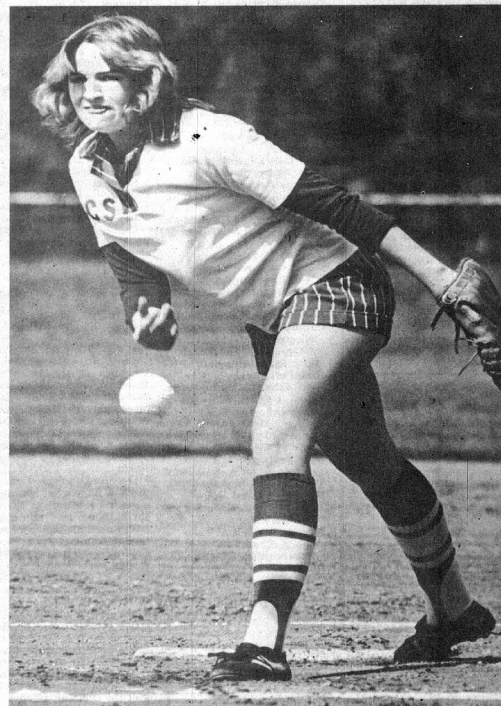

One of Houston's high school rivals is now a teammate at Eastern. Nick Whiteside, former Mount Vernon distance standout, also received a scholarship. "I don't get a chance to run against him much anymore," said Houston. "He's in a different event now. But we're still friendly rivals."

Whiteside did not qualify for the national meet. But among the other Eastern athletes who did are Mike Boreasford of Danville in the 3,000 meter steeplechase and Perry Edinger of Mattoon in the 3,000 steeplechase and the 5,000 meter run.

How has Houston adjusted to college life in Charleston, Ill.? "I love it here," he said. "The team, the school. It's a lot of fun. Hard work, but a lot of fun, too."

Houston hasn't yet made plans for the summer. "I'll either stay here, work and maybe go to school or go back home (Granite City) and try to find a job. I'm looking for a job back home, but you know how it is."

But right now, Houston has something a little more pressing on his mind.

KAREN SPENCER delivers a pitch in action in the Alton Marquette Softball Regional. Spencer and her teammates scored six runs in the first inning yesterday and held on to beat Wood River to advance to the championship game, which was to be played today at 4 p.m.

Macs sweep Chiefs

COLLINSVILLE — What may have started as a friendly makeup doubleheader last night at Fletcher Field ended up as the "Collinsville Marathon."

McDonald's of Granite City was able to stay awake long enough to come away with a twinkle sweep of the Collinsville Chiefs in Inter-City League action, 6-3, 14-11.

The doubleheader, originally scheduled for May 17 had been rained out. So rather than playing on a bright, warm lazy Sunday afternoon, the two teams squared off on a cool, damp night under poor lighting conditions.

The result was five and a half hours of baseball. Collinsville manager Jerry Phelps, never at a loss for words, summed up the general feeling around the field at midnight after the second game. He paused and looked straight at the reporter, and said, "Get the bases."

One thing was for sure — both teams knew where the bases were during the games.

McDonald's didn't take long to let the Chiefs know they were in for a game. In the first inning of the first game Jeff Parker singled with two outs. Johnny Pritchard followed with a two-run homer.

Pritchard was not the man

Collinsville wanted to see at the plate. He also singled and scored in the third and smacked another home run (a solo shot) in the fifth. Bob Ford followed Pritchard's second homer with one of his own.

"We lost our first game on errors against Maryville Sunday," said McDonald's manager Ray Harris, referring to a 3-2 loss to the Red Sox. "We made a few errors again tonight, but I thought we played pretty well."

The Chiefs put together 11 runs in game two and were leading 10-8 going into the seventh inning. It wasn't enough. McDonald's came up with six runs on four hits.

Kahoks edge O'Fallon

Special to the Press-Record

COLLINSVILLE — If the Kahoks go through another game like Wednesday's, Collinsville fans are going to have to make tranquilizers part of their regular bleacher fare.

It wasn't enough that the Kahoks came up with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to beat Triad Monday afternoon in the semifinals 3-2 of the Collinsville Class AA Regional.

No, the Kardiac Kahoks had to take the O'Fallon Panthers nine full innings before coming away with a 3-2 victory and their fourth straight regional title.

And they did it with/onit to his. "There's other ways to score besides hitting the ball," said Collinsville coach Russ Keane. "If you just put the ball in play, then things can happen. I don't think people know how nervous the players are out there."

O'Fallon was the most nervous, committing five errors. Two of Collinsville's three runs were direct results of errors. The Kahoks' only other run was scored on a wild pitch.

The Panthers, who beat Edwardsville 1-0 Monday, behind fastball pitcher Gary Heien, came back again yesterday with their ace. Heien was 14-1 going into the game and O'Fallon's best pitcher for more than two years.

"I thought we'd score more runs," Keane said. "Monday (Heien) was getting tired. He was throwing the ball high and walking some people. I didn't think he could come back with one day's rest."

"He's an excellent pitcher. He's not just a thrower. He's a pitcher," Keane said. "While Heien was busy baffling the Kahoks with a slider that he kept down and away, Collinsville senior Rod Wood gave up just four hits as he went all nine innings for the Kahoks. His record is 9-2."

O'Fallon took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first. Heine drove in the run with a ground-rule double.

The Kahoks tied the score in the third after Robert Sanabria went all the way to second on an error by O'Fallon's third baseman Mike Mayo. Mayo first kicked the grounder and then threw wildly to first. It was

AUTO FACTS

by Harold Chitwood

When liquid vaporizes, it draws heat from its surroundings. This is the basic principle behind operation of a household refrigerator and your car's engine cooling system. As a practical demonstration, swab your forehead with rubbing alcohol on a hot day and feel the cooling effect as the liquid evaporates. A car's air conditioning system, if filled with refrigerant, boils at very low temperature. To cool the air, the refrigerant is alternately compressed then allowed to expand. In the process, it changes back and forth between liquid and gaseous states. Each time it changes to a gas, it cools the coils in the evaporator which is often located in or near the passenger compartment. A blower forces air over the cold coils into the car's interior.

The basic principle behind our operation here at BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY is that our sales team is interested, first and foremost, in helping you select the right vehicle, with the right options for your needs. They listen to you and answer your questions honestly. Whether you are in the market for a new car or truck or need repairs to your present vehicle call us at 345-5444 or visit 1820 Vandalla St. in Collinsville. We are open Mon. to Fri., 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. and our number one concern is your satisfaction.

AUTO TIP:

To take moisture out of the air on cool days, air is chilled below the desired temperature, then forced through the heater to reach a comfortable temperature.

Oil change, oil filter, plus lubrication

Don't put off this important service work any longer. Your old oil is drained from your engine, and replaced with Shell Fire & Ice 10W-40 motor oil. A new filter is installed to trap harmful particles that may carry their way into the engine's main stream. Then your chassis is lubricated at all key points. Offer expires June 6, 1981.

to the plate, including a three-run homer. For the game he had five RBI as Crawford hurled five innings before needing relief help. Crawford's strong pitching effort was only reciprocated in the second contest as Rains took to the hill and mowed down the Chiefs. Having Rains throw the entire seven innings was a good sign to Crawford. "We have six strong pitchers this year," said Crawford. The second contest was highlighted by a Jeff Tretter home run. But not your everyday round-tripper. It was a blast that easily cleared the fence at the 390 foot mark. Tretter is a new addition to the Cowboy team and his power could play a big role for Corral's title hopes. "Tretter has good power and can play any position in the outfield," said Crawford. "He'll make a difference."

St. Louis Steamers sign top rookie Ebert

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Steamers have signed rookie sensation Don Ebert to a new full-year contract. In a statement released Monday, Steamer President, Stan Musial welcomed Ebert. "I speak for the entire Steamer organization when I say how proud we are of Don Ebert's performance, and accomplishments throughout last season," said Musial. "We feel he'll be the key player for us in the years ahead."

Ebert, whose potent goal scoring helped push the Steamers to the Central Division championship and the league championship game, was named the 1980-81 Major Indoor Soccer League Rookie-of-the-Year in a vote by the Professional Soccer Reporter's Association. The contract runs through the 1982-83 season with an option the following year. Terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

The 21-year old forward from St. Louis played in 44 of 49 regular season games and topped the steamers in goals (46) and points (65). Both figures are Steamer records. Only three other MISL players scored more goals during the regular season. Ebert finished tied for ninth in the point scoring race. After scoring a goal for the Western Conference All Stars in the 8-5 victory at Madison Square Garden on February 11th. Ebert finished the season with six hat tricks, fourth best in the MISL.

He scored at least one goal in 26 of the steamers games, but perhaps his biggest goal of the season came when he beat the New York Arrows at Nassau Coliseum in overtime. That Steamer victory ended a record 19-game Arrow winning streak. Like many of his Steamer teammates, Ebert started his soccer playing career in the St. Louis CYC before setting records at Rosary High School. During his collegiate career at SIU-Edwardsville, he was a U.S. Olympic Soccer Team member for three years. He led SIU-E to the NCAA championship in 1979. Ebert's signing brings the total number of Steamers now under contract to 11. Others signed are defenders Carl Ross, Steve Pecher, Tony Bellinger, Greg Makowski and Ty Keough; forwards Emilio Romero, Tony Glavin and Steve Sullivan; and keepers Manny Schwartz and Sloba Iljevski.

Schuler voted state's best soccer player

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — When you mention soccer and Granite City, the name of David Fernandez has to come to mind. He's practically a legend in this town. But he doesn't know and probably most people don't know that Fernandez has some competition.

Although of the opposite sex, Terri Schuler and her achievements speak for themselves. You see, Terri, a senior at Granite City South, is pretty good at soccer, too. So good, in fact, that she, as a member of the South girls soccer team, was named as the best girl soccer player in the state of Illinois.

How's that for credentials? The honor was presented to Schuler at a banquet at Charlie's by the National Youth Soccer Coaches Walt Chyzowych and Bob Gansler. Terri's selection was based on a number of factors which were all the results of her accomplishments.

Playing for the Illinois select soccer team, which is a select number of girl soccer players, Terri received the most votes as the teams best player. She was also voted as the best Illinois player in the Midwest Select Team tournament just held over the weekend.

The Illinois team was one of seven select state teams in the tournament held at the University of Wisconsin at Park Side, which is near Racine, Wisconsin. The other teams were from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana and two from Ohio.

In addition went her seasonal performances. They included being named to the all-tournament team at the Big Red tourney at Indiana University and runner-up as the most valuable player in the Missouri St. Blaise tourney. The decision was rendered by Andy Gasparovic, vice-president of the Illinois Youth Soccer Association, Charlie Necello, board member on the IYSA, and by Schuler's head coach Bob Kurilla.

And would you believe it, Terri thought she was going to the banquet as a representative of girls soccer.

"I really didn't know why I was supposed to be there," said Schuler. "All of the girls on the team have done a good job. I'm still trying to figure out where they got the idea to give it to me."

Such as prestigious honor just might open some doors for Schuler as far as making a decision on where she would like to attend college. "I didn't have a set school in mind before the Indiana tournament," said Schuler. "The Indiana coach has talked to me. They sound like they want me. I know I can play for them, because we (South) beat them in their tournament. I would like to go there, because they have got what I want."

Terri also said that the University of Wisconsin at Madison really wanted her to come play soccer for them. But should she fall to get some kind of scholarship for her soccer talents, she has an alternate plan. "If I don't get a scholarship, I'll go to Western University," said Schuler. "I have already been accepted there."

"I know a friend that attends Eastern University and she has organized a club soccer team there. Maybe I'll do the same at Western." If you haven't guessed it by now, soccer is Terri Schuler's life.

She even went as far as to worry about what happens after college. "That's one thing I'm not looking forward to," said Terry. "I can't imagine playing only four more years of soccer and that's it. There would be no more. I have played soccer all my life. I get bored if I don't play some kind of it. I know I would miss it a lot."

But Terri's dedication and determination, along with her talent for the game, just might help change the future of girls soccer within the high school. It has to get started by someone, which at the present there isn't organized soccer on the high school level. It's too bad for Terry that she might be the one who would start it. Right now, she wishes that she were a few years younger.

"When we were freshmen, we really wanted to play soccer bad," said Schuler. "I think my contributions will help a lot. It should make a difference in the high school."

However Terri's talents and accomplishments have gone virtually unnoticed by the public. "That's a big problem," said Schuler. "Nobody knows about our soccer team. There's a lot of positions in sports that have the unsung players. I don't think I'm the only one." Terri Schuler might not have become a household name overnight when it comes to soccer now, but she has definitely made a name for herself within Granite City and the state of Illinois.

At Syracuse, July 12-30, men and women's athletic competition will be held in 31 sports. Two weeks of intensive training by participants will be followed by closing tournaments.

SIU Volleyball Coach Daniele Hunter said Locke should have an excellent chance of being named one of ten speakers from the Midwest to the NSF.

The competition will be Locke's first and last opportunity to earn a spot at the NSF. Participation is limited by age and she turns 20 next month which will make her ineligible for next year's Festival in Indianapolis, Ind.

Doerr to Mac

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. — Rick Doerr, one of the top high school basketball players to come out of the St. Louis Metro East area in 1981, has announced intentions to enroll at MacMurray College this fall.

The 6-5 Doerr, a graduate of Dupu High School, led his team in scoring the past season with an average of 24.4 points per game. The high-scoring center also averaged 10 rebounds each game while posting a 62 percent mark in field goal attempts and a 68 percent showing from the free throw line.

"Rick is a strong inside player who can score well," MacMurray Basketball Coach Bob Gay said in announcing Doerr's plans. "He should be able to make the adjustment to the college power forward position at MacMurray easily."

Doerr was a first team selection on the All-Metro East basketball team and was also named to the All-Chabokia Conference team based on his play during the 1980-81 season. He paced his Chabokia Tigers, coached by Don Gerich, to a 9-15 record.

"We're excited and enthused that Rick has chosen MacMurray," Gay added.

LOCAL BOWLERS. Donald Hopkins, left, and Jeanine Reichwein of granite city bowled Memorial Day weekend in the Bowl-Your-Way-to-Europe Tournament in Washington, D.C. They represented Tri-Mor Bowl in Granite City. There were some 450 bowlers in the nation's capital from over 250 Brunswick Recreation Centers across North America. They won out in local competitions from some 450,000 league bowlers nationwide.

New coach at SLU

ST. LOUIS — Mickey Englett, Athletic Director and Head Basketball Coach at Cumberland Community College in Lebanon, Tennessee, has been named Assistant Basketball Coach at St. Louis University.

Englett has been with Cumberland Community College for the past six years and has an impressive 121 wins and 58 loss basketball record at Cumberland.

Englett graduated from South Alabama University in 1969 with a B.S. Degree and then earned his masters degree in Physical Education and Recreation from the same school in 1974. Billiken Athletic Director and head basketball coach

Ron Ekker said Englett's primary responsibilities will be recruiting for the basketball program but that he will assist in the administration of the Athletic Department.

"I am excited about Mickey coming to work with us," Ekker said. "He gives us experience in the recruiting field and he has outstanding contacts throughout the nation which should upgrade our recruiting tremendously."

Englett served as an Assistant Basketball Coach at South Alabama for two years, prior to joining Cumberland's staff.

Englett also served as the Head Baseball Coach for four years at Cumberland and has a career baseball coaching record of 158 wins and 41 losses. His 1979-80 team was the number-one ranked junior college team in the country for the entire season and this year's team finished ninth.

Englett twice coached his Cumberland Basketball team to the Tennessee state championship (1976 and 1979) and he was selected as the Eastern Division (Tennessee Junior College Conference) Coach of the Year in 1979.

Englett, who's appointment becomes effective on July 1, and his wife, Sarah, have a seven year old son, Greg.

baseball team. Jones reached second when Patterson, trying to complete a double play after Burgess was forced at second, threw the ball over the first baseman's head. After Burrington walked, Wallace, Stegmier brought reliever Rich Takmajian in out of the bullpen. He struck out Rich Korkamp and almost had Jones picked off at second.

But Jones snuck in under DePew's throw and kicked the ball out of Patterson's glove. He went to third. Takmajian walked Barry Macias to load the bases.

Jones and Wallace scored when Rusty Meyers's slow roller bounced off Patterson's glove. Green then struck out to end the inning.

In the Alton seventh, diminutive Paul Eads came on in relief and retired the side in order, striking out the last two, including Burgess swinging to end the game.

"I thought our pitching was suspect before the season," said Stegmier. "But now, I'm not afraid to go to the bullpen."

"The reason I didn't stay with Takmajian in the seventh was that he just wasn't as sharp as he normally is. But Eads came in and did the job."

Paddlers' opens Saturday

Paddlers' Inc., the local family membership swim club, located at 2121 Johnson Road, will inaugurate its 24th season at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, May 30.

The twin-pool facility still has a limited number of summer memberships available to eligible families, according to Don Lane, president of Paddlers' Board of Directors.

A total of 450 families currently holds memberships in the club.

Paddlers' also is planning to offer swimming lessons to members and non-members, starting in June, with registration and additional information available from the pool manager at 876-1802. On Saturday, a flag ceremony will open the proceedings at 12:30 p.m.

Presenting the colors will be members of Webelos Den 1 of Cub Pack 46, sponsored by Nameoki School PTA, including Stephen Lane, Brad Choate, Mike Jilmer, Greg Koberna, Andy Smith and Craig Hall, under the leadership of Don Lane.

Members of the governing board also will be present at the ceremonies and all club members are invited to attend, Lane said.

Father-son campout held

The Webelos from Frohardt School Cub Scout Pack 22 went on a father and son weekend campout at the Mount Olive farm of Nameoki United Methodist Boy Scout Troop 5 Assistant Scoutmaster Max Forbes. Attending were: Forbes and Webelos scouts (named first) and their fathers: Aaron Colp and Jim, Eric Kuenkler and Bill, Todd Snellie and Larry, and Dennis Winn and Lee.

After arriving at the campout, Max led the Webelos and fathers on a tour of the farm.

The boys learned to be cowboys by rounding up the cattle and driving them to the feeding area.

The Webelos did many different things on the campout.

They learned about gun safety and held a target practice with a pistol. They caught several catfish and bluegill by using tree branches and fishing line.

The group also when on a hayride, and they stopped to tour a horse farm. The boys learned techniques that scouts use in campouts.

They learned utensils cooking by use of aluminum foil, and they made several different camp fires, including the friendship fire and the cooking fire.

After supper, which the Webelos cooked, a Mount Olive priest, Rev. A. J. Tamulis, a former priest at St. Joseph Church in Granite City, gave a talk to the boys. Afterwards there was more fishing and a friendship campfire with roasted hot dogs, marshmallows and stories.

It was extremely late before the Webelos bedded down in the barn, but they were up at dawn Sunday morning. After fishing early Sunday morning, the fathers, with the help of Webelos, cooked breakfast. After a quick hayride, the campout was closed as it started to rain.

All the attending Webelos expressed an interest in graduating from Webelos into Boy Scouts and going on more camping trips, according to their leader.

SIUE Alumni form job club

Alumni of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have organized a job club for the benefit of any of their fellow alumni who might be unhappy in their present positions or who, for one reason or another, are temporarily unemployed.

A program of the Alumni Association, the club serves as a networking system whereby job-seeking becomes part of a group effort.

Warren Stooke, director of Alumni Services at the university, says the club allows members to share information on where available jobs in their career fields are located, and to sharpen their job-hunting skills, making them more competitive in the job market.

The program is being coordinated by Don Orler of Collinsville. "The club is nothing more than people helping each other, sharing their own resources," according to Max Hansel, a counselor in the Office of Counseling and Testing.

"It is open to alumni looking for other positions, or who may be between jobs, or who are seeking advancement. They do not have to be unemployed," Hansel said.

"We find that people who are between jobs or who are unhappy at work get some support from their peers, usually sympathetic. What we want to furnish is an objective or professional feeling of support which is more effective."

A "buddy system" is employed in the job hunting process, incorporating such techniques as role-playing, resume review, job lead sharing, and mutual encouragement by a peer group.

"We are trying to develop more cohesiveness among our alumni members. We would like to have those in the field — who have attained satisfying and rewarding positions of employment — help other alumni who are not as fortunate," Hansel added.

The services are free to all SIUE alumni. The club meets Thursdays from 7 until 9 p.m. at the Alumni House.

Alumni who would like to volunteer their services as resource people or who feel they might benefit from such services are being encouraged to attend.

General Steel stock dividend

The board of directors of General Steel Industries last week declared a 20 percent special stock dividend, payable July 13 to shareholders of record June 22. One additional share of GSI common stock will be issued for each five shares outstanding.

In declaring the special stock dividend, the company said it anticipates continuing to pay a quarterly cash dividend at the present level of 11 cents per common share. The company's second quarter cash dividend, declared last month, is payable June 12 to shareholders of record May 22.

A. Van Sant, chairman and president, said, "This action of the board and management is a strong vote of confidence in the company and its future growth and profit potential."

"We believe the stock dividend is an appropriate recognition, in a period of high money costs, of the continued interest and support by our shareholders."

Shareholders who would receive fractional shares of the new stock, will instead, be compensated in cash.

Proposal to legalize home work

The U.S. Department of Labor is proposing to lift current restrictions on "homework" in certain industries, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan has announced. He said the move would strengthen enforcement of wage and hour rights.

"It is our belief that current restrictions create an arbitrary distinction in the workplace, while not resulting in fewer violations," Donovan said.

"The change we are proposing will in no way mean a reduced commitment to ending work place violations wherever they occur — in factory sweatshops or in the home," he noted. "It is through 'strike forces' in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and elsewhere the department will be 'cracking down' on those who exploit workers particularly in urban areas."

The department's proposal to drop the restrictions follows a review of existing homework rules, which have not been substantially changed since their inception in the early 1940s.

The restrictions, originally adopted to stem flagrant violations of that time, affect seven industries: women's apparel, jewelry, knitted outerwear, gloves and mittens, buttons and buckles, handkerchiefs and embroideries.

The current rules allow homework in these industries, but only for elderly or disabled employees, and for those who must care for an invalid.

Donovan added that the rule change could open up job opportunities in many "cottage" industries and encourage workers to report minimum wage violations "without fear of losing their jobs."

The department's intention to review the homework restrictions has drawn wide public attention. Two heavily attended public hearings were held this year in Burlington, Vt., and Washington, D.C., to obtain information and specific views on homework.

Testimony in favor of keeping the homework restrictions pointed to evidence of worker underpayments and unsafe working conditions.

Those opposing the restrictions noted their harmful effect on rural economies, where lack of factory jobs and transportation, and high energy costs make homework more desirable.

"It is not the department's intention to deprive Americans of job opportunities at a time when unemployment is already too high," Donovan said. "We don't believe that working at home should be an underground or illegal activity."

DWI CHARGE FILED
Ernie E. Verba, 36, of 912 Iowa St., Madison, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol at 12:30 a.m. Sunday after his auto allegedly swerved back and forth in the 1200 block of Madison Avenue and then struck a parked car after making a right turn onto 14th Street.

BASE RADIO TAKEN
A burglar who forced open the front door of the William Paul residence on Rural Route One last week obtained loot worth $600, including a television set, shotguns and a citizen band base radio.

Colonial offers 'vacation vaults'

If you are going on vacation and do not know what to do with some of the larger valuables in your home, Colonial Bank of Granite City has come up with a new idea, according to Donald E. Van Horn, president of the bank.

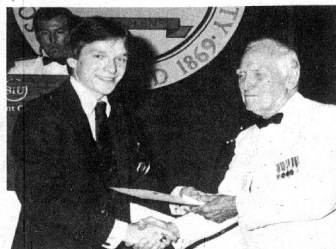

Colonial has just completed installation of four "vacation vaults" large enough to hold the television set and other valuables for families while they are on vacation.

Three of the vaults are 13 by 21 by 24 inches and the fourth is larger, measuring 38 by 21 by 24 inches. They will be leased on a short-term basis only, but there is a wide selection of other types of safe deposit boxes on an annual lease arrangement, Van Horn said.

"Our special large vaults are perfect for storing valuables such as furs, silverware, coin collections or anything you consider precious while you are on vacation or away from home for an extended period of time," Van Horn said.

He said the vacation vaults are not the first innovation Colonial Bank has introduced to the city. Others include a sit-down check counter and the first extended drive-up unit.

"Colonial Bank will be celebrating its fifth anniversary the week of June 22," Van Horn said, inviting the public to watch the Press-Record for announcements of special activities and offers that week.

Promise Missouri Avenue repairs

The Illinois Department of Transportation has agreed to begin patching Missouri Avenue (formerly Route 3) in about five weeks, but will not be able to asphalt the roadway for at least a year, the Granite City Council was told Tuesday night in a letter from Dale Klor, district engineer for IDOT.

In the letter, Klor agreed to "repair with concrete some of the worse places" in the roadbed and to "try some asphalt resurfacing next year," but he said before he can comment on permanent repairs to Missouri Avenue, he will need to check with state officials and will "pass this information on to the council when it becomes available."

The council voted to place Klor's letter on file. The state has been asking the city to take over ownership of the former Route 3 since old Route 151 was completed and became the new Route 3.

The city has refused to accept ownership of Missouri Avenue, saying state statutes require that it be put in good condition by the state before it is turned over to the city.

Missouri Avenue from the curve by the Shasta plant north to Route 3 is filled with potholes, cracking pavement, a rough railroad crossing and other problems, city officials have noted.

At the insistence of the council, several letters have been sent by the city to IDOT asking for immediate repairs to the Missouri Avenue roadway and also requesting repairs to Nameki Road, which suffered deterioration during the winter.

Job-hunt workshops during June

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold three on-site public at one location in Chouteau Township tomorrow to consider zoning requests.

The hearings are set for 10:05, 10:10 and 10:15 a.m. Friday near the KOA campground, south of the Chain of Rocks Road, going just past the campgrounds entrance, turning on a gravel road and driving to the end of the road, in the woods.

The second hearing will be in the same location the owner and Robin Mueller for a special use permit to place a single-wide mobile home for a watchman and caretaker for the grounds.

Art workshops offered

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer three art workshops for elementary and junior high school students in the area during the summer quarter, according to Joe Weber, associate professor of art and design.

A primary workshop for children ages 6-8 will be offered June 15-26 from 9 until 11 a.m. in Room 3200 of Classroom Building III.

Students will be engaged in a hands-on approach to the making of art. Coursework will include drawing, painting, clay modeling and construction with wood, cardboard, and paper as well as printmaking.

The students will also learn about artists and the works of art they create. Colors, shapes, textures, patterns and lines found in nature, as well as man-made forms, will also be discussed.

An intermediate workshop for students ages 9-12 will be offered July 6-17 from 9 until 11 a.m. in Room 3200 of Classroom Building III.

In this workshop, students will explore indepth art forms created from clay and other craft forms such as stichery, weaving, and mosaics. They will also construct puppets and perform their own puppet shows.

Field trips to artists' studios will be included in the workshop activities. Students will learn two or three different approaches by different cultures in the making of traditional art forms (Japanese, African and Indian).

A workshop for junior high school art students in grades 7-9 will be offered June 15-26 from 9 until 11 a.m. at the Wagner Complex.

This workshop is designed for the art student currently attending junior high school. A serious approach to drawing and painting, the workshop will include such drawing techniques as perspective, shading, stippling, and crosshatching.

In painting, students will explore watercolor, acrylics and some oil painting.

Students enrolling in the class should bring a portfolio of their art work to the first session.

Registration for any of the workshops is $25, or $20 for Friends of Art members.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Joe Weber in the SIUE department of art and design by telephoning (618) 692-3183.

2-party division enlivens county lawmaking

By BILL WINTER

Once Republican dominated, and later Democratic inclined for many years, the Madison County government now is functioning with a Democratic legislative body that is a bit restless over Republican control of all legal advice, prosecution and litigation.

The division of power is creating spirited and sometimes acrimonious County Board deliberations.

Those in the center of the stage include two powerful Republicans, State's Attorney Donald Weber, no fan of Democratic elected or appointed officials, and outspoken Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, adviser to the County Board.

Smith, involved in several board meeting controversies last week—pointedly reminded the board that the state's attorney staff can file any legal proceedings it wishes to pursue, with or without County Board sanction.

He said he does intend to obtain prior board approval for lawsuits, and a Democrat replied that he had better, or risk losing fund appropriations for the office of state's attorney.

Although that comment and reply were made seriously, there also is frequent lighthearted banter between the Democratic majority and the Republican minority on the 29-member legislative body.

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer wondered out loud last week whether Republicans will be able to find enough polling place judges for the next election, and a GOP partisan conceded that it is difficult for his party to find enough poll officials in some areas.

Republicans joshed back by noting that Democrats currently have few individuals who have passed the appraisal test required of potential Board of Review members.

Chairman Hagnauer replied that "we're having trouble finding people who can pass the test—both Republican and Democratic." A Democratic board member responded that "all the Republicans are in the state's attorney's office."

When Hagnauer, a Granite City Democrat, momentarily overlooked a committee report by Homer Henke, a More Republican, Hagnauer joked that he had forgotten there were any Republican committee chairmen.

Despite the humorous side of the meeting, undisguised friction was visible.

Board Member Harold "Cotton" Roberts interrupted an attempted reply by Attorney Smith at one point, asserting that he did not want to hear it, and was interested instead in the viewpoints of elected board members.

Board Member James R. Heil, an attorney, voiced frequent disagreement with legal opinions from Smith.

At one point, Hagnauer explained to the board that Smith was speaking with proper authority because he had asked for and received Hagnauer's permission to talk.

On another occasion, when a board member said Smith was giving inappropriate and unwanted advice, Smith interjected with a request for "full hearing" on the allegation against him.

A member questioned Smith's practice of writing many long letters to the board, county governmental subjects without specific authorization to do so.

Smith generally conveyed the impression that, although numerically outmanned in the meeting room, he felt more than able to uphold his end of any argument.

He prevailed when he sought to derail a Special Sewer Committee effort to authorize an attorney to possibly file suit against a contractor. Smith warned that anything less than total victory in such a suit might make the board members personally vulnerable to monetary damage claims.

But he lost in his plea for twin collective bargaining elections affecting county governmental employees. The board opted for a single election to be held next month.

The long-simmering dispute over whether and how to change county unions has made many county officials uncomfortable, and Hagnauer told the board it was "no fun" for him to walk around the Courthouse during a period of seemingly endless delay in setting the procedural ground rules. He noted that the union competition has been an issue for nearly six months.

Smith said it may be an unpopular fact that the state's attorney office has such sweeping jurisdiction, but that this nevertheless is a fact.

He cited as an example his objection to the Quad-City sewer area governing committee utilizing H. Carl Runge as its attorney. Smith contends that such a committee is required to use Smith, the official Weber representative to the County Board.

On another topic last week, Smith got board members' undivided attention when he said he is considering recommending a way that the board can expand the Board of Review to more than three members.

The review board was granted additional time, to May 30, to complete its current review of property assessments, and it will be working short-handed due to a Weber-supervised grand jury report criticizing one of the three review board members.

Hagnauer is taking time to study the jury's material before deciding whether to reappoint one of the two review board Democrats. He reappointed the republican member last week, and will make a decision on the other pending appointment by the June meeting of the County Board.

Immediately prior to Smith's remark that he may suggest a bigger review board, concern was voiced by some of the County Board members, including Henke, that the length of the property review task is delaying tax collection and distribution to county and local governmental agencies.

It was reported to the County Board that discussions were to be held last night to help expedite the tax process.

Later in the board meeting, Smith was prevented from replying when Roberts expressed amazement that a former bank office building acquired by the county was said to be in good condition when purchased but now must be extensively repaired to meet state fire code requirements.

The agenda included a resolution to call for bid the Illinois Life Safety Code improvements to the building, and another resolution to secure architectural services to provide design drawings for fire-related improvements.

Roberts asked, "Why are there deficiencies in the construction? Why didn't we know about them when we bought it?"

Hagnauer replied that repairs may be required at this time "because now it is a county-owned building."

Michael Semanisin commented, "There are many other buildings where they could find fire hazards," and H. Jack Frandsen said the Buildings Committee is continuing its study and believes "we may not have to do all the things to it that are being suggested."

One estimate is that it might cost $102,000 to make the former Bank of Edwardsville structure, located adjacent to the Courthouse, meet all state fire regulations.

Smith said up to $400,000 may be involved in the issue of whether the county can force its sewer contractor to replace residential and commercial property markers that may have been lost during excavations for sanitary sewers in Namecki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

With 4,000 parcels of property served and markers costing about $100 each, much money is involved and there might be a domino effect, with nearly all residents submitting marker replacement requests, Smith said.

Lois Whitsell, chairman of the Special Sewer Committee, pushed hard for board authorization for the committee to use Runge to sue the contractor. He said there are numerous complaints, that the contract clearly calls for replacement, and that without a lawsuit there has been little or no response.

Smith strongly opposed the suit, saying numerous problems and issues are being negotiated with the contractor and that a lawsuit would make it difficult to proceed with these talks.

It was at this point that he warned about potentially losing such a suit and incurring costly or board financial responsibility.

When Whitsell sought passage of a motion for authority to sue, Smith urged, "Let's wait until we can talk to the contractor." Most of the board voted against the motion, leaving the matter in the talking stage for at least the next month.

The board's decision last week to hold one union bargaining election rather than two elections went contrary to the legal adviser's wishes.

Board Member William Webb of the negotiating committee had cast one of the three affirmative votes in a 3-2 committee stand favoring a decertification election. Decertification would have been the first in a sequence of two elections.

Webb changed his mind in favor of a single election, asserting at the board meeting that he had been "brain-washed, or whatever you want to call it" by Smith.

Heil questioned the board's authority to hold a decertification election without being asked to hold it, and Frandsen said the board had agreed to conduct a bargaining election but never had talked about decertification.

Smith said the County Board has the power to schedule one or two elections in any way it sees fit to proceed.

Webb next asserted that all county governmental employees, not just union members, could vote if a two-election plan was followed. He opposed voting by "freeloaders."

Herschel Beane spoke for himself and read a letter from an ill board member, James Stalcup. Both cited a 2-0 County Board vote to hold a bargaining election, and urged that it be scheduled without further delay.

Smith, never one to shrink from controversy, spoke up to assert that the two board members are Teamsters. Beane objected to this assertion as irrelevant.

Beane said he had not sought to

Balanced BAC budget

A balanced budget is believed to be attainable for Belleville Area College in the July 1981-June 1982 fiscal year.

Acting President Bruce Wissors presented an $11.3 million tentative budget to the Board of Trustees last week. It is up 15 percent over the estimated expenditures of $9.8 million in 1980-81.

The document was prepared through use of modified zero-based budgeting techniques, he added. Dr. Wissors recapped highlights of the past fiscal year as follows:

—Presentation of the tentative budget in time for board approval before the July 1 start of the fiscal year, a first in BAC history.

—Another first, the initiation of zero-based budgeting.

—Also a first, open budget hearings.

—Introduction of quarterly budget reviews for the first time.

—Establishment of a building repair-and-replacement budget.

—Savings that put a three-year, $1 million budget reduction plan $30,000 ahead of schedule.

—Service to 14 percent more students than anticipated without spending beyond the budget.

—"Significant delay" in the need for a tax increase in the district; and

A marked improvement in student statistics, including an enrollment increase, a decrease in dropouts and a rise in grade-point averages.

"It was the best year in the financial history of the college," Dr. Wissors said, "and the best year in terms of student statistics. If there is a correlation between budget procedures and student statistics, it's a positive one."

The college has experienced the highest enrollment in its history for three consecutive semesters. Nearly 90 percent of students who enrolled in fall 1980 classes completed them, lowering the dropout rate by 36 percent over the previous semester.

The mean grade-point average rose from 2.84 to 2.9 over the preceding year, it was related.

"BAC has taken the lead among Illinois community colleges in conducting open budget hearings," Vice President for Administrative Services James J. Hines said.

"I don't know any other community college in this state that's going through this process," Hines said, adding that examination of the budget department-by-department has led to a more comprehensive understanding of the school's needs.

The budget will be posted for public examination, and a public hearing on it will take place at a special meeting of the BAC board at 7 p.m. June 24, Room 140 at the main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

In preparing the tentative budget, BAC officials continued implementation of a three-year plan to reduce recurring expenses.

"We started out about $600,000 in the red," Hines commented. "Coming up with a balanced budget was hard work."

He and Dr. Wissors praised the cooperation of staff members who participated in the budget meetings.

Proposed expenditure increases range from 10 percent for miscellaneous expenses to 49 percent for travel. The increase from $57,000 to $86,000 for travel is the result of an administration goal of upgrading staff skills. Dr. Wissors told the board. This includes sending people to BAC as well as sending staff to off-campus meetings, he added.

Mileage reimbursement will remain at 17 cents a mile and daily food allowance at $15, according to the tentative budget.

The largest single cost is for salaries, set at $8.3 million in comparison to a 1980-81 figure of $7.4 million. The next largest expenses are contractual services at $702,000 and supplies at $635,000.

Other increases include 11 percent for salaries—the faculty contract calls for a 10 percent hike—43 percent for employee benefits, 24 percent for contractual services, and 33 percent for supplies.

Fixed charges are expected to climb 15 percent, utilities 35 percent and capital outlay, 38 percent.

The increase in employee benefits reflects anticipated upgrading of medical and life insurance benefits and an increase in the educational incentive allowance to help teachers who are being laid off, the proposal says.

Total projected increase in income is 6.5 percent above the actual amount received in 1980-81.

There is a difference between this figure and the projected 15 percent rise in expenditures because the percentage of increase is based on actual revenue received in 1980-81, Dr. Wissors said.

Income received during 1980-81 was $600,000 more than budgeted, while expenditures did not exceed the budgeted level.

In other business last week, the BAC board approved five personnel appointments, granted four leaves of absence and accepted five resignations, including those of Public Information Director Doris Slocum and counselor Helen McIlvain.

Doris Slocum has accepted a position as a recruiter with Bell and Howell in Dallas, Texas.

Hired were Michael Foland as a full-time accounting instructor and Lucille Van Scoyk, Cynthia Stewart and Lynn Hofstetter for secretarial positions. The latter is returning after a leave of absence.

Director of Veterans Services Ted Lewis was appointed Financial Aid and Placement assistant. Leaves of absence were granted to Lynne Hicks, Lynda Eades, Robert McElroy and Shirley Fitzgerald.

Resignations from Thelma Ann Hurst, Debby Durkee and Patricia Cross were accepted.

Welding instructor Garner Kimbrell was named coordinator of the Welding Technology Program and Dr. William Allen was named coordinator of the Security Administration Program.

Area artists were awarded 14 blue ribbons in the Madison County Town and Country Art Show held May 15-17 in Glen Carbon. David Hunley, SIUE director of cultural arts and university museums, served as show jurist.

The following blue ribbon winners will enter their work at the Regional Town and Country Art Show, June 12-14 at St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights: Patricia M. Barnett, Eva M. Meadows, William B. Schryver and Gladys Spies, all of Granite City; Lori Clement-Gardner, Alton; Sam Fazio, Vera Jagielski, Mary Ann Parrill and Roseann Sullenger, all of Edwardsville; Kay Robinson, Donna P. Tamburello, who received two blue ribbons, and Kathie Throm, all of Collinsville; and Dale T. Stewart, Brighton.

Best of Show was awarded to Vera Jagielski for her entry, "Number Five," a watercolor painting.

The following artists were awarded honorable mention: Georgia A. Dunaway, Shirley Weinacht, Vernon M. Stowe, Donna Tamburello, Mrs. Bobby L. Tevebaugh and Kathy A. Throm, all of Collinsville; Susan F. Finke, Edith A. Hermann, Vera Jagielski, Rebecca Jellen, Ellsworth Mebold, Dorothy L. Rigler and Roseann Sullenger, all of Edwardsville; and Jerry Lockhart, Granite City.

A special feature, the People's Choice Award, went to Carolyn Smith of Granite City for her oil painting, "Another View."

Town and Country amateur art shows are sponsored annually in mid-May by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service through local planning committees. Artists are permitted a maximum of eight entries, for which a nominal fee is paid in April.

Blue ribbon winners at the regional show exhibit in the state show held each fall at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Shows are open to the public at all the levels of competition after the works have been judged and critiqued.

Medical center program aids patients with lung disease

"There is no cure for chronic lung diseases like emphysema, but it is possible to utilize what a person has in order to live a meaningful life," Mike Range, director of Cardio-Pulmonary Services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, explained to Edwardsville RSVP members.

Chronic lung disease does damage to lung tissues that cannot be repaired," Range said. "But the disease process can be stopped and people suffering from these diseases can be rehabilitated."

Range went on to explain the Pulmonary Rehab program at SEMC. "Patients are referred to our program by their physician. Some people are referred while they are in the hospital being treated for respiratory problems, while others may be referred for treatment as an outpatient. We start working with the patient by testing how well the lungs are working. When the studies are complete, the rehab staff begins teaching the patient how to live with the disease. This teaching program helps both the patient and family understand what the disease involves and what lifestyle changes may be necessary to improve the patient's condition, he said.

An important aspect of rehabilitation, according to Range, is exercise. "Muscles that are out of shape require more effort to do simple tasks." By reconditioning the muscles of the body, the demand for oxygen is less and the lungs are working better.

In addition, patients are taught the role of medication and diet in their daily lives.

MIKE RANGE, director of Cardio-Pulmonary Services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, addresses a meeting of Edwardsville RSVP members.

They learn what their medication is for, the importance of taking it regularly and what possible side effects they may have to look for. Patients are advised that there are certain foods they should avoid because their body's reaction to them may cause increased shortness of breath. A significant part of the rehabilitation program is the Better Breathers Club.

According to Rick Bargiel, coordinator of the Pulmonary Rehab program, "This group provides patients an opportunity to socialize. Some of our members are patients in the Pulmonary Rehab Unit, others have been discharged, but our meetings give them a chance to get to know one another and talk about their experiences." The meetings, held every identify himself as a Teamster. Smith replied, "I know it, but it's fair to say it, isn't it?"

The board member responded, "I am also a Teamster. Should that be brought out?" The Teamsters are the chief rival of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which has been representing about 400 county employees, 230 of them officially.

The last AFSCME agreement expired with the end of the 1980 fiscal year Nov. 30, although employees pay was since been raised for the 1981 year.

Teamsters tried in 1980 to become the bargaining agent for some of the 170 non-union employees, and they went to court late last year to halt contract talks between the county and the AFSCME.

After the county ordered an election, the two unions agreed to divide up various departmental groups. The board "dug in its heels" with that, saying it would negotiate with one or not two unions.

A new labor policy was adopted by the board in April, outlining procedures for a county-supervised bargaining election. But the negotiating committee for a time urged a vote on decertification of the AFSCME, as a prerequisite to a preference vote on joining the Teamsters, AFSCME or neither group.

The Teamsters union opposed the decertification plan and called for a single election to decide all questions. By a 15-9 margin, the board agreed last week that only one election will be held on June 1.

The dust of battle has settled for now, but there will be more county lawmaking, more legal advice, and more verbal dueling next month.

Miss Petrovich plans to move to Indianapolis, Ind. after her graduation, according to her mother.

Field school at Indian mounds for 10 weeks

Those looking for an unusual vacation this summer may be interested in an archaeological field school offered by the Cahokia Mounds Historic Site here.

Monk's Mound, the largest prehistoric earthen structure in America, was the center of a thriving civilization from 600 A.D. to 1400 A.D. Cahokia Mounds, the largest prehistoric site in the United States, was surrounded by huge temple and burial grounds.

Cahokia Mounds' field school is one of the few places in the U.S. where nonprofessionals can participate in "hands-on" archaeology. The school is offered each summer, and is open to the general public. No prior archaeological experience or education is necessary to enroll, and middle-aged adults often work alongside college and high school students.

This summer's excavations will focus on the stockade—a large log wall, much like a fort, that enclosed the "downtown" area of this prehistoric city.

Bill Iseninger, a staff member, says the stockade was built through earlier living areas, so students find abundant pottery, flint tools, animal bones, and other artifacts.

House floors, storage pits, and refuse pits are often uncovered and carefully excavated by students and staff. Previous excavations have revealed that the wall was built and rebuilt at least four times.

The field school is not designed to produce professional archaeologists, but simply to stimulate greater public appreciation of archaeology.

Five two-week sessions are available: June 15 to 27; June 29 to July 11; July 13 to 25; July 27 to Aug. 8; and Aug. 10 to 22.

Iseninger said, "You'll work eight hours a day, five days per week. Your tools and equipment will be provided. But food, transportation, lodging, and personal expenses must be arranged by you."

"Motels and primitive camping facilities are available nearby. Tuition is $75 for each two-week session. You must be 16 years or older, in good health, and show a genuine interest in archaeology."

Younger children may accompany a parent who is enrolled in a session.

More women than men usually enroll in the field school and many teachers take their experiences back to the classroom.

"Some high school students like to try on archaeology as a profession, to see if they'd like to major in it at college. Many adults are delighted with the opportunity to do something like this, and even retirees have participated."

"You will be instructed in the fundamentals of archaeology."

"Your day will be split between field work—surveying, digging, mapping, photography, and screening—and lab work—washing, sorting, and cataloging your finds."

For applications and more information, Quad-Cityans may write or call: Cahokia Mounds Museum Society, Box 382, Collinsville, Ill. 62234, telephone 344-5268.

ART ADDS ANOTHER DIMENSION.

Prisoners at Madison County Jail work on hand-crafted articles during an art and design learning session at the holding facility. In addition to ceramics, the prisoners receive instruction in drawing, painting and graphic design. The classes are provided by faculty members of the department of art and design at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

SIUE instructor conducts art classes in county jail

Henry Ward Beecher once said that every artist dips his brush in his soul, and paints his own nature into his pictures. In expressing her definition of art, Amy Lowell said that art is the desire of a man to express himself, to record the reactions of his personality to the world he lives in. Frances Tetreault of Troy would probably agree with both of them.

Mrs. Tetreault conducts a course in art education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville that shows instructors how to teach art and design to students confined in correctional settings. The techniques and observations she uses as examples in her lectures do not come from textbooks — she gets them first-hand.

Before coming to the area about three years ago, Mrs. Tetreault was an art instructor at the Larimer County Jail in Fort Collins, Col. Today, she provides the same type of art activities for prisoners at both the Madison and St. Clair County jails.

"Many of the students in her class, 'Human Development Through the Arts,' have expressed interest in teaching in penal institutions after graduation. 'It takes a certain amount of courage and compassion to explore the correctional area as a career field,'" Mrs. Tetreault said.

The SIUE instructor has plenty of both. She is quite concerned about what can happen to the psyche of people who spend long periods of time in confinement. Mrs. Tetreault feels that long before they are imprisoned, these people's worlds have narrowed down considerably. Confinement merely serves to constrict their options further.

Mrs. Tetreault believes that art allows the prisoners to broaden their sights again, while giving them an entertaining and constructive way to pass the time. It also helps them alleviate depression during their confinement and can give them a sense of accomplishment and self-worth.

Just getting a class in art and design started in a penal institution can be a challenging task in itself. There usually is little encouragement, perhaps, least of all from the prisoners themselves.

Mrs. Tetreault's first attempt at teaching a class behind bars is a prime example of what can happen with such a venture. The year was 1974, and it was several weeks before Mother's Day.

When the prisoners at Larimer County Jail were asked if they would like to construct cards for their mothers, the offer was negatively received. Except for one decisive voice speaking from the center of the cell during today, "I do," the class would have met an untimely end before it got off the ground.

"The prisoner who wasn't afraid to admit he wanted to make a card for his wife was a second-story man — one voice, but a determined one. Who he stepped forward, he brought with him nine other men who suddenly wanted to touch base with home."

"Jail is a tremendous waste of human resources," Mrs. Tetreault contends, yet at the same time she praises the second-story man for his contributions to the general well-being of the prison block.

"He could bring a sense of adventure into things," she said. "He would go about the prison, wrestling people out of their depression." "I do," Mrs. Tetreault admits that over the years, many prisoners have used her classes as a means of temporary respite from their cells. "One way you can tell they are truly interested is when they ask if they can take paper with them back to their cells," she said.

Mrs. Tetreault is justifiably proud of her students. She has a right to be. Some of them are fairly good artists. "One young man has discovered cartooning. He spends a lot of time copying other artists' cartoons — whenever and wherever he can find them," she said.

Another has brought her a series of surrealistic drawings. "The have a mystic quality about them," Mrs. Tetreault said. "You have such a quality about them," she told him. "Do you write?" He answered no.

She was not about to give in. "You have so much to give in your drawings. I wonder if you ever tried to write poetry."

"Oh," he said. "Poetry." Then he sat down and proceeded to write eight lines of poignant verse on the sense of loneliness. "He has a gift of writing as well as drawing, and he wasn't even aware of it," she said, proudly.

In addition to drawing, painting and writing, the prisoners receive instruction in ceramics, tissue art, and graphic arts design. Picking up a heart-shaped piece of unfired clay with a message inscribed upon it by a female prisoner, Mrs. Tetreault said, "Women tend to do romantic things."

Ideas for self-expression in art may come from anywhere, Mrs. Tetreault said. "Drawings may come from a crack in the floor, or from seeing a shadow of a pattern," she explained.

"Leaves on a sidewalk. Sometimes I have watched sunshine casting a shadow on my canvas, and I have painted it."

If art can let prisoners reach beyond the bars to bring a little sunshine into their lives, it may make all the difference in the world in how they perceive the world when they join it again. They can thank Francis Tetreault for caring enough to help them make it shine.

Marriages down, deaths increase

Births in Madison County during April declined, deaths increased and marriages dropped slightly as compared to those of the same month a year ago, according to a vital statistics report released by Evelyn Bowles, county clerk.

A total of 250 births was reported during the month, a reduction of 18 below the 268 reported in the same month last year. They included 131 boys and 119 girls, compared to 118 boys and 150 girls born in April 1980. Two sets of twins were born in April of each year.

The number of April deaths totaling 166, an increase of six over 159 reported last year.

There were 216 marriages last month, the report said, compared to 221 a year ago.

Crossing to close

The Illinois Department of Transportation reported last week that County Highway 59, Hawthorne Street, Hartford, Ill., will be closed to through traffic from May 29, 1981, through May 31.

The closure is necessary due to the reconstruction of the grade crossing of the Illinois Terminal Railroad. The crossing is being reconstructed of timber planking and bituminous materials by railroad forces in accordance with the Illinois Terminal Railroad maintenance program to provide a smoother and safe crossing.

The department requested that motorists be patient and cautious while traveling.

Summer park program 'biggest ever': Wilson Park pool to open Saturday

River Fest at SUE dropped

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The scope of activities planned by the Granite City Park District for the 1981 spring-summer season is enormous and will touch all segments of the community—regardless of age level, interests or lifestyle.

Programs range from movies and concerts, both vocal and the "big band" variety, to almost every summer sport and to recreational playgrounds for grade school children.

Inaugurating the busy season ahead will be the opening of the Wilson Park swimming pool at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 30.

Pool hours will be from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. daily, with the facilities available for rental from 9:15 p.m. until 10:15 p.m. Saturday through Thursday for private parties at a cost of $50.

Admission fees this year for park district residents with identification cards will be 65 cents for children through grade 12 and $1.15 for adults. Non-residents and those without cards will pay $1.15 and $1.75, respectively.

Senior citizens (55 years and over) are invited to swim without charge between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Monday through Saturday.

Young people, 13 to 19 years, also have a "special time" and may participate in Teen Nite swimming from 8:30 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. on Fridays.

Season passes to the pool for residents with park ID's cost $35 for families, $12.50 for children and $20 per adult.

On Monday, June 8, the annual Park District summer playground program will begin for youngsters in grades 2 through 6.

Arts and crafts, swimming, trips movies and games are among the activities to be offered at four centers—Nameki, Webster and Wilson schools and Lincoln Place Community Center—where children may register at 9 a.m. June 8.

The seven-week program is free, but each child must pay a $3 insurance fee, which covers all park activities through April 1982.

Girls' volleyball is among the new programs being offered this summer for girls 8 through 13 years old, which includes instruction, as well as game participation.

Classes will be held for seven weeks, beginning Monday, June 8, at the Wilson Park, including from p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Gymnastics and tumbling classes for both boys and girls in grades 1 through 12 will start at 9 a.m. Monday, June 8, at the Nameki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues.

Classes will continue for seven weeks Monday through Thursday at times assigned by the instructor for various proficiency levels.

Tennis lessons will be available at the Wilson Park courts, also beginning Monday with instruction offered to girls on Monday and Wednesday, boys on Tuesday and Thursday and adults on Tuesday nights.

Registration for adult tennis will take place at 7 p.m. Monday, June 8, with the children to register at different times on the first day of instruction, depending on age group.

The first in a series of "big band" concerts, a new program this season, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 23, at 27th Street and Delmar Avenue.

John Fornasewski will direct the 18-piece band playing "very listenable" July 9, Lincoln Place Community Center, 822 Niedringhaus Ave., July 23, and Worthen Park, Maryville Road and Parkway Drive, Aug. 6. All concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

Free "Music Under the Stars" concerts will be presented at 8 p.m. on June 16, 30, July 14 and July 28 in the Wilson Park rink pavilion.

All local residents are invited to join the choral program with rehearsals starting Thursday, June 4, in the vocal music room at Granite City High School South.

Six weeks of "action packed" family entertainment will be provided in the form of free movies at Shelter 2 in Wilson Park, beginning June 18 and continuing each Thursday at dusk through July 30.

Among the full-length feature films to be presented are: C.H.O.M.P.S., Ice Castles, A Boy Named Charlie Brown, Sinbad and The Eye of the Tiger and Sgt. Peppers Lonely Heart Band.

A baseball school for boys from 8 to 15 years old will be held on Diamond 7 in Wilson Park, starting Monday, June 8, with classes during the morning hours on Monday through Friday for seven weeks.

Geared to youngsters who are already on organized teams, as well as those who are just learning, the program provides instruction in the fundamentals of hitting, fielding, baserunning and pitching.

Girls 8 through 12 years old may register at Diamond 8 in Wilson Park on Monday afternoon, June 8, for the PonyTall Stall Program.

Initially, instruction will be given on basic fundamentals with the participants then split into teams. Those attending should provide their own gloves.

A variety of "Learn to swim" sessions will be available to all children 8 to 13 years of age, with two-week sessions for boys starting June 8 and July 6 and instruction sessions for girls scheduled June 22 and July 20.

Registration for all swim classes must be made in person at the pool office between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays, after May 30.

The cost of admission for 10 swim lessons is $3.90 for residents with an ID card and $5.90 for non-residents.

Many other activities are arranged for the coming summer months, including trips to the St. Louis Muny Opera, a day in St. Charles, Mo., and a St. Louis Cardinal baseball game at Busch Stadium on a weekend excursion to the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn., among others.

Further information about any of the Granite City Park District programs may be obtained by calling the Wilson Park office at 877-3069.

New GC township multiplier 1.229

In an effort to avoid a county-wide property assessment multiplier, the Madison County Board of Review has issued tentative township multipliers for all townships in the county, including a 1.229 multiplier for Granite City Township (all of Granite City).

Venice Township has a tentative multiplier of 1.2175 and Chouteau Township's assessments are to be multiplied by 1.2146, while Nameki Township will have a negative multiplier of .9633, according to the Board of Review's suggested plan.

Home and property assessments would be increased by multiplying the assessment (one-third of market value) by the multiplier. In the case of Granite City Township, property assessments would rise 22.99 percent if the proposed 1.229 multiplier is imposed.

A public hearing on the proposed township multipliers is to be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 10, in the county courthouse at Edwardsville.

The township multipliers will be necessary to avert a county-wide multiplier of 1.1275, which the Department of Local Government Affairs has suggested, unless township multipliers bring the county's overall assessment up.

Trained by ARMY
Army Pvt. Russell G. Jacobs, son of Cyril R. Jacobs of 2620 Highway 3, Granite City, and of Rose M. Richardson of St. Louis, has completed basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Nederlander organization have agreed not to hold Mississippi River Festival (MRF) concerts this summer.

The decision was announced Friday afternoon following a meeting of Dr. James R. Buck, director of development and public affairs for the University, and Wayne Nederlander, representing the organization which assumed operation of MRFP three years ago.

Dr. Buck said it also was agreed that major improvements are required at the MRF site before the public will support a wide range of popular programming. He said the Nederlander organization will be looking at various means of supporting a site improvement project, including the possibility of a collaborative effort involving local businesses and industries.

The outdoor music festival has been held each summer since 1968 on a hillside on the University campus. It has a permanent stage, but seating has been limited to approximately 2,000 temporary chairs and space for blankets or portable chairs on the lawn.

Dr. Buck said the decision not to hold concerts this year was a mutual agreement based on the condition of the facility. He said he concurs with Nederlander that major improvements must be made before the site will have popular appeal for audiences of all ages.

Dr. Buck explained that a recent tour of Nederlander's new Poplar Creek theater near Chicago persuaded him that site improvements are the key to a successful festival operation.

Describing the Poplar Creek facility as "spectacular," he said the theater has 7,000 seats, units of 1,000 and a capacity of 13,000. Diversified programming is offered.

"A similar facility and the programming offered would be a positive addition to the University and the region," Dr. Buck said.

The Nederlanders, who have theaters in many of the nation's major cities, indicated their marketing research confirms the need to establish more modern facilities in the future. "As the percentage of older people increases in our society, the demand for first-rate facilities will also increase," Wayne Nederlander stated.

Dr. Buck added that the desire for a better facility to serve a wide range of popular interests is consistent with the tradition of the University and the heritage of the MRF, which in its early years was rated on the nation's finest.

Dr. Buck said he will be meeting during the year with the Nederlanders to consider development of a plan for the site.

The University will continue to use the facility, which is on the north side of the 2,600-acre campus, for various institutional events. The annual commencement program is scheduled at the location on June 12.

Completes Basic
Army Pvt. Michael A. Starnes, son of Ruby L. Starnes of 1131 Logan St., Madison, has completed basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

State supports Hospice program

By MARY RICHARDS of the Department of Public Health

More and more people are reacting negatively to the way dying patients are cared for in institutional settings. This dissatisfaction is being evidenced by the growth of the hospice movement in America.

In recent years, there has been a return to acceptance of death as a part of the life process rather than as a failure on the part of the medical profession.

When there is no longer any clinical hope for recovery, patients and their families are being helped to accept death and to recognize the stages of rejection, anger, depression, grief and acceptance that a patient experiences.

The hospice program is designed to care for the patient in several situations including home care, institutional care and inpatient care. Regardless of where the patient is cared for, the general goals of all hospice care remain the same—to provide the dying patient with relief from distressing symptoms of disease, the security of a caring environment, hospice care and the assurance that neither the patient nor the family will be abandoned.

If the patient is being cared for in a hospice unit in a hospital or nursing home, their families will have open visiting hours. They will be involved in the care of the patient to the highest degree possible. It is through this method that family and friends have the opportunity to demonstrate their love, and the patient is protected from a feeling of abandonment.

To be actively involved in the care of a loved one is a challenging experience, but research has shown that the hospice program more easily dealt with by those personally involved with the hospice care. The program is designed so much for the treatment of disease as it is for the treatment of the person.

The Illinois Department of Public Health supports this movement by sponsoring hospice workshops, at the request of a community, for physicians, registered nurses, clergy and volunteers.

Although research into the effectiveness of hospice care training is in its infancy, evidence supports the conclusion that most nursing personnel who participate in the state health departments workshops become more sensitive to the needs of the dying patients and their families.

If you want more information about the hospice program workshops, contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Long-Term Care, 828 West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Ask 'public airing' of jury probe into assessment system

Harry Renken of the Organizing Committee, a citizens' organization in the eastern part of the county, said in a statement last week that the grand jury report released a week ago "definitely does not clear Barton" and renewed their call for the public airing of the Department of Criminal Investigation report into alleged irregularities in the assessment system in the county.

"The scope of the DCI probe and the grand jury were both too limited. Just because the grand jury found insufficient evidence upon which to base a criminal indictment, doesn't mean there isn't something terribly wrong with the Supervisor of Assessment office and the Board of Review," he said.

"The grand jury didn't say, as they said of another subject, 'the allegations were unfounded,' they just weren't able to find the 'smoking gun'." A thorough investigation of the entire assessment system should be conducted by the County Board, as we suggested two years ago in a letter sent to County Board members.

He said that, also, that only one of the seven chief actors in the assessment system was even mentioned in the grand jury report, and only two were called before the grand jury for questioning. Barton was not called, nor was Harris, nor past members of the Board of Review Heil, Coultas and Githoff.

"Finally," he said, "the grand jury's recommendation that the DCI report be turned over to the County Board. But we further call on the county board chairman and the states' attorney to release the report to the public. We suggest placing a copy in the public library, so that everyone can have the opportunity to look at it. We look forward to cooperation from the board chairman and the states' attorney, so that Madison County's assessment system can get a public airing."

In Good Spirits! GEORGE CREWS

If someone were to ask what is the oldest distilled spirit in the world, you would be quite correct to say rum. A distillation from the fermented juice of sugar cane, rum is produced in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Hawaii, Jamaica, as well as other West Indian and South American locations and even in New England under the name New England rum.

Rums can, quite easily, be placed into two categories: light and dry or heavy and flavorful. Light rums are produced at high proof, usually between 160 and 180, while dark rums are distilled at considerably lower proof in pot stills. If you enjoy the occasional daiquiri or grog, you're in good company. Rum is reputed to have helped inspire the patriots to make a sizable toast of Boston Harbor. It was considered necessary ration for the Continental Army (as well as the British Navy) and George Washington reportedly lifted a cup now and again.

Register now at BAC-Granite City Center

Summer classes start Monday, June 8, at the Granite City Day Center of Belleville Area College, located at the former Washington School, 2800 W. 20th St. It was announced today by John Silvester, center director.

Registration currently is taking place from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, but will conclude Wednesday, June 3.

A $5 late fee will be charged students registering between June 8 and June 12, the final date, Silvester said.

Ten credit courses will be offered during the summer session, ranging from basic algebra to emergency medical technician. A $16 fee per credit hour is charged.

To assist prospective students, counselors will be on duty Tuesday, June 2 and Wednesday, June 3, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., Silvester reported.

Math and English placement testing will take place from 9 a.m. until 12 noon, June 2.

Also on June 2, a financial aid officer will be on duty at the center from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

The sale of textbooks is scheduled June 8 and June 9 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Courses available, include:

Introduction to Business; Accounting I; Typing I; Emergency Medical Technician; Rhetoric and Composition I.

Medical Terminology; Intermediate Algebra (concurrent enrollment); Basic Algebra; General Psychology; and Introductory Sociology.

In addition to the academic courses, several special activities are in the planning stage at BAC's Day Center here, the director advised.

Silvester said a mobile outreach van has been proposed for use in conjunction with the center's program.

The vehicle probably would visit area shopping centers to promote public awareness of BAC programs, he explained.

Also in the works are plans for a series of workshops to be offered the general public on such subjects as career planning and stress management, the director advised.

New curtains for Madison High gym

The mothers club of Madison Senior High School has asked Madison School District 12 to pay about half the cost of new stage curtains and ropes for the high school auditorium.

At a meeting last week, School Board members agreed to help the mothers club pay for the curtains, which will cost approximately $3,000.

"I think they (the mothers club) did as much as they could to raise the money," Mrs. Bobbie Bosworth told the board members. The mothers club also is asking other school clubs to contribute, and plan to raise more money by operating a concession stand at the school carnival.

It also was decided to re-hire personnel who have not been dismissed, resigned or reigned for the 1981-82 school year. Substitute teachers also will be retained.

Board members agreed to employ C.J. Schlosser and Company to audit the the district financial statements for the year ending June 30, 1981. The fee for the auditing is $3,775, and $500 for the Title I program. "I checked this out with other schools, and the price is comparable," Superintendent of Schools John Palech told the board. Schlosser has done auditing for the school district in the past.

The board also received a membership certificate from the Consortium of Vocational Educators and Employers (COVEE). The

DIVIDING LINE
The United States and Russia signed a treaty on April 17, 1824, setting the dividing line between Russian and American claims on the Pacific coast at 54 degrees 40 minutes.

Many forms of social security is available

Many people don't realize that the social security system provides income to widows and orphans, and the severely disabled, as well as to retired workers and their dependents. In fact, about one out of every six persons in the United States is receiving some type of social security benefit.

"The statistics become more meaningful in looking at who is currently on the social security rolls. As of October 1980, the total figure was 35.2 million. This includes 19.5 million retired workers and about 3 million of their wives and husbands and 650,000 of their dependent children.

Disabled workers number 2.9 million and their dependents another 1.8 million for a total of 4.7 million people getting benefits under the disability program. There are 7.6 million widows and widowers and 2.7 million children.

Social Security officials often make the point that social security is not just a retirement program in order to make people aware of its disability and survivors insurance features. But it's also true that the number of people under age 65 receiving benefits—11.8 million, or about a third of the total number of beneficiaries—dramatizes the importance of the program to people of working age.

About 4.2 million beneficiaries are children receiving benefits as the dependents of retired, disabled, or deceased workers. They include children 18-22 who are unmarried and still in school full-time and children of any age who are disabled before age 22.

Among the lesser known beneficiaries are some 95,000 dependent parents of deceased workers who qualify for benefits at age 62 if the worker was providing at least half of their support. In addition, about 127,000 disabled widows and widowers age 50-60 are receiving disability benefits on the record of a deceased spouse. Widows and widowers may also qualify for benefits at age 60 on the work record of the deceased spouse.

For more information on how to qualify for the various benefits Quad-Cityans may contact the nearest social security office.
